Air Attack on Island Base Is Reported To Have Gone on For Past 48 Hours.

CAIRO—(U.P.)—A number of French troops have gone over to the Allies and others have returned to their homes, unofficial sources reported today as British middle eastern headquarters said the "penetration of Allied forces" into Syria is proceeding satisfactorily.

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP)—Premier Mussolini virtually defied the United States today to declare war against the Axis. Il Duce, addressing the Chamber of Fasces and Guilds on the anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war, declared Japan would be loyal to her pact with Germany and Italy in the event of "American aggression against the Axis."

(By Associated Press)

Reports that German and Italian warplanes have directed, violent continuous assaults on the island of Cyprus for the past 48 hours indicated today that the Axis may be preparing a "second Crete" invasion of the British-fortified stronghold, 70 miles off the coast of Syria.

The reports came from the German-controlled Jeloey station of Norway.

The radio said Nicosia, the Cyprus capital, and the naval port of Famagusta were the main objectives of the attack.

London military circles have repeatedly forecast that Cyprus would be the next target of Adolf Hitler's aerial invaders in the wake of the 12-day conquest of Crete.

Army Takes Over Struck Airplane Plant

Under orders of President Roosevelt, the U. S. army yesterday took over the North American Aviation company plant at Inglewood, Cal., where a strike has halted production on some $200,000,000 worth of defense orders. With fixed bayonets, the soldiers moved on the plant and cleared the entire area of pickets and strikers. Six persons were injured when police and pickets clashed and tear gas bombs were thrown.

FDR Suggests Suspension of Judgment Until All Facts Are Clear.

(By Associated Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO — The captain of the Brazilian steamer Osorio in a radiogram to the Associated Press today asserted that the United States steamer Robin Moor, sunk in the Atlantic May 21, was torpedoed.

The Osorio has aboard 11 members of the Robin Moor's crew, picked up from a lifeboat in mid-Atlantic last Sunday. The survivors said there had been three more lifeboats containing seven passengers, including three women and a child, and 28 crewmen.

The survivors are: John J. Banigan, Karl Nilson, Virgil Sanderlin, William S. Cary, Peter Buss, Donald Schableise, H. O. Rice, R. Carlisle, Antonio Santos, Hugh Murphy and P. C. Eccles.

Work Stoppage Threats Over Nation Growing

Production Resumed at Army-Controlled Inglewood Plant, But Five Alcoa Plants in Cleveland, Six In Detroit Shut Down.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—With the strike situation growing darker hourly, the OPM today advised the White House that unless action is taken within a few days, work stoppages in the aluminum industry will result in cessation of all bomber production.

(By International News Service)

The national strike picture steadily grew more ominous today despite the action of the government yesterday in taking over and operating the strike-bound North American Aircraft corporation plant at Inglewood, Cal.

New strikes and threatened work stoppages sprang up in various cities, mostly in the Middle and Far West. At least one new strike seemed to be the direct result of the army's action at Inglewood.

Meanwhile, an alarmed congress rushed through two stern, strike-curbing amendments to the gigantic $10,000,000,000 army supply bill as Selective Service Director Brig. Gen. Lewis Hershey, with the approval of President Roosevelt, announced that strikers on defense projects might be drafted in a return to the "work or fight" policy.

Only bright spot in the national picture was final settlement of the long dispute between northern and southern Appalachian soft coal operators and John L. Lewis' CIO United Mine Workers Union.

The strike situation at a glance:

INGLEWOOD—More workers continued to return to work under army protection at the North American plant and "normal" production was promised within a few days.

CLEVELAND—A new strike at five plants of the Aluminum Corporation of America was called last night by CIO leaders, despite efforts of the national mediation board to settle wage demands. The plants are engaged in manufacturing vital airplane parts.

DETROIT—Six plants of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation working on $25,000,000 in defense orders were struck today by the CIO Aluminum Workers Union although the dispute had been certified to the national mediation board.

More Candidates Declare For Municipal Offices; Dems Still Without Mayor Candidate.

The pieces in Mansfield's political puzzle continued to fall into place today but one large one, that of Democratic candidate for mayor, still remained missing.

While E. P. Long, former Richland county sheriff, continued to gain ground today as a possible Democratic candidate for mayor, there was still no definite indication that Long would run. Republican Mayor William J. Locke has already announced he would seek a second term.

Meanwhile, two more candidates for other offices filed petitions and another was reported circulating a petition for candidacy.

Latest to file was Jacob J. Kutschall, Democratic incumbent, who will seek re-election as Fourth Ward councilman. William Ow-

Fish Count On at Charles Mill, Thousands Get Tags

State Conservation Workers Say Lake Well Stocked For Anglers—Net Catches One 19 Inches Long.

Tests being made at Charles Mill lake east of Mansfield indicate there will be good fishing in the lake for a long time and that it probably will be open to fishermen most of the year.

State conservation department workers, including C. I. Kimmel, game warden in Richland county, are counting the big fish in the lake and they are already past the 25 000 mark.

Test nets, designed to catch only fish beyond five inches long, are being used to haul in the bigger fish so they can be counted and tagged.

Kimmel said tests are being made in all parts of the lake and the results will be submitted to the state conservation commission which will meet Wednesday in Columbus to determine the open seasons for next year.

Eight or nine kinds of fish have been hauled out of the lake and thrown back, the game warden said. Small tags are attached to the gills of the fish so the conservation workers won't count them a second time. Biggest fish hauled out of the lake so far was 19 inches long.

The lake is closed to fishermen now, but it will be opened again next Monday, first day of the bass fishing season.

Kimmel said the fish count indicates the lake is well stocked despite the large number caught in it during the past year, and that the conservation department probably will not close the big lake to fishermen as rumored in recent weeks.

HANGAR RAZED

Damage Estimated at $30,000 In Youngstown Airport Fire.

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — Four airplanes and a hangar large enough to accommodate 20 ships were included today in a fire which caused an estimated $25,000 to $30,000 damages to the Bernard airport.

One of the ships destroyed was a $5,000 passenger ship, the others were training planes.

Mechanics reported that solder ignited plane fabric while they were making repairs on a ship and the craft immediately burst into flames. Several other planes were saved.

Army Starts Training Course For Sail Plane Pilots.

DAYTON — (INS) — Apparently satisfied that Germany's air invasion of Crete was thorough enough for similar operations by the U. S. army air corps, Wright field officials announced today a training course for pilots in glider and sail plane operation.

Col. Lester Miller, commander of Wright field, declared that 12 officers would be assigned immediately to glider and sail plane schools at Elmira, N. Y., and Joliet, Ill., for a training course in all phases of glider construction, operation and launching.

At the same time, Col. Miller announced the purchase of a number of gliders for study and actual use by pilots assigned to Wright field.

ACTION: Senate O. K. Due On Seizure Of Plant By U. S.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war department asked congress today to sidetrack its so-called property seizure bill temporarily to permit speedy passage of legislation to give the president specific statutory authority to deal with defense strikes.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINTON—Overwhelming senate approval was predicted today for legislation confirming President Roosevelt's action in having the army take over the strike-bound plant of the North American Aviation corporation.

The legislation was offered by Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.) as an amendment to a pending measure authorizing the president to grant a blanket deferment to all selective service registrants over 28 years of age.

Connally's amendment specifically would empower the government to take over plants where defense production was impeded or threatened, whether by strikes "or other cause."

Mr. Roosevelt acted yesterday under powers the White House said were vested in him by the constitution and under his recently declared unlimited emergency.

Acting Majority Leader Byrns (D-SC) said he anticipated scant opposition either to the Connally amendment or the selective service proposal.

The house meanwhile dispatched to the senate two further measures aimed at curtailing defense production stoppages. Cheering representatives gave them a 350-to-1 vote of final approval yesterday as part of the huge $10,009,655,187 army bill which carries

ROLLING: North American Begins To Turn Out Planes

BULLETIN

INGLEWOOD, Calif.—(U.P.)—Col. Charles W. Steinmetz, in charge of the struck North American Aviation plant, said today that 3,431 workers had returned on the day shift. "We can assure at least 50 per cent of normal production," he said.

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—Army officers promised to start war planes rolling off North American Aviation, Inc., production lines again today after 3,000 soldiers reopened the CIO-UAW-struck plant.

Bayonets and machine guns protected the plant, taken over by troops yesterday under orders from President Roosevelt. Picket lines were pushed back a mile.

Soldier guards were promised for nearby residential districts where more of the 11,500 workers live. Police radio cars patrolled an even larger area.

"We are going to work this factory, piecemeal or to capacity—but make no mistake, we are going to work it," declared Lieut. Col. Charles W. Steinmetz, army air corps officer directly in charge of production.

Piecemeal work began yesterday and he said some planes would be ready to fly today.

Lieut. Col. Charles E. Branshaw, in charge of the entire plant, telegraphed nearly 9,000 workers in invitation to resume work.

"I guarantee them absolute safety and protection while they are on the job, while they are proceeding to and from work or while they are in their homes," he said.

Army officials reported that 1881 employes returned to work on the day shift yesterday and 964 for the night shift. Normal employ-

Gives O. K. On Plan To Honor Barnes At Bridge Dedication

State approval of dedicating the Baltimore and Ohio railroad overhead project on West Fourth street in honor of the late Thomas R. Barnes, Mansfield manufacturer and member of the Lincoln Highway commission for this district, was announced today by Mayor William J. Locke.

The mayor said that state highway officials had informed him that they would be agreeable if the procedure required no expenditure by the state. Locke said that the only expense would be that of buying a dedicatory plaque and the installation of the plaque at the overhead crossing.

According to the mayor, a committee, which he will name in the near future will handle arrangements for the plaque and the ceremonies dedicating the project. Locke said that he had named Edwin D. Baxter, one of Barnes' closest friends, to head the committee.

The mayor also announced that he was making arrangements for some opening ceremony for the beginning of work on the overhead and the under pass at the Erie railroad, a mile further west. Ceremonies tentatively scheduled for yesterday were called off when the machinery of the Lombardo construction company of Cleveland failed to arrive.

Missing Bomber Sighted, Crew Believed Alive

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(AP)—Wreckage of the army's missing twin-motored bomber which vanished Sunday with six men aboard, was reported sighted west of Lyman, Wyo., this morning.

The army's ground crew is some distance from the reported scene of the crash but carries radio communication. The army expects that its plane, when it sights the grounded ship, can guide the ground party to the scene quickly.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., Eddie Broks, United Airlines pilot, said he sighted the plane from an altitude of 11,000 feet and that it was on the top of a knoll about 10 miles northeast of Lyman, Wyo.

He said the ship seemed intact and that it appeared possible for its six occupants to be alive.

City Hall's Pigeons Take In 'Star Boarder' Stranded Here

The racing pigeon lovers at the Mansfield central fire station, reunited last week after a long separation, took in a "star boarder" yesterday.

The newest resident in the improvised coop in the Municipal building courtyard, was brought in by Lieut. Bruce Friday, who found it at the rear of the Ohio Public Service plant on North Adams street.

Although the newcomer has the same markings as the faithful pigeon-wife who stayed about the city for more than a week attempting to find her mate, who was injured when struck by an auto, the identification tags on his legs differ from the first couple.

The pigeons came from Buffalo and have metal tags marked "H242" while the new boarder is identified as "GS 107" and with a rubber band marked "311." No home station is marked on his tags as on the original couple.

Firemen and police reported that they have received numerous calls since they took in the pigeon couple. They also said that the trio seems to live peaceably together. Plans are being made to contact authorities at Buffalo to see if the birds' owners can be located.

11 Aluminum Plants In Detroit and Cleveland Close; Army Turning Out Planes.

Aircraft corporation were taking a strike vote today. Consolidated holds $700,000,000 in defense contracts and has been turning out naval patrol bombers for the U. S. and Great Britain.

SAN FRANCISCO — Striking A. F. of L. and CIO machinists maintained picket lines at 11 shipyards as work went forward on $665,000,000 in warships and cargo vessels. The strike has been in effect since May 12.

OLYMPIA — CIO woodworkers sought to extend their northwest lumber tieup to include all loggers and saw-mill workers in the Columbia river district although CIO President Philip Murray has condemned the strike.

PITTSBURGH — CIO utility union members threatened a strike at the main plant of the Duquesne Light company, which supplies power for defense industries.

BALTIMORE—Shipping of lease lend aid to Britain was stopped by a strike of licensed officers of 30 tugboats in Baltimore harbor.

BENHAM, Ky. — International Harvester company's coal mine shut down after slaying of an aged Negro by snipers during a two-hour siege of the mine property.

Cleveland Strike Threatens Defense

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Two representatives of the CIO National Association of Die Casting Workers will fly from Washington today to address a mass meeting of the union here tonight and report on progress made in conferences with the national defense mediation board.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A strike of 5,500 production workers at five Cleveland plants of Oluminum company of America today raised a threat of widespread delay in the aircraft industry.

The plants, comprising ALCOA's largest foundry division, supply vital aluminum castings for such plane engines as Wright, Pratt & Whitney and Allison, as well as other defense-needed gear.

The company, reporting its plants at a standstil, said about $60,000,000 worth of national defense orders were tied up. Any extended delay would have serious effects upon defense factories elsewhere, a spokesman added.

The CIO Die Caster's union in calling the strike yesterday said the company was stalling on wage demands and that negotiations sponsored by the national defense mediation board were "getting nowhere." It seeks a 4½ cent hourly increase in pay and a raise in the minimum wage from 72 to 75 cents. There are 1,500 employes in addition to those represented by the die casters.

While pickets quietly patrolled the plants' gates both union and company officials looked to Washington for further developments. The mediation board's panel considering the case was reported to have insisted upon reopening of the factory as a preliminary to further negotiation.

Meanwhile, a Washington order was passed along to Cleveland draft boards to re-examine the classification of strikers previously given occupational deferment by reason of employment in a national defens industry.

No figures were available as to the number of workers such a move might affect at ALOCA.

The plants have aproximately 1,500 employes in addition to the 5,500 represented in collective bargaining by the CIO unit.

Call Strike Despite Mediators' Appeal

DETROIT — (AP) — About 4,000 members of the United Automobile Workers-CIO struck today at six plants of the Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corp. despite an eleventh-hour appeal of federal mediators to postpone the action.

The dispute, in which the union asks a general pay increase of 10 cents an hour, was certified by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to the national defense mediation board yesterday.

Simon D. DenUyl, secretary-treasurer of the company, said 85 per cent of the six plants' production was for defense orders and that the company had government contracts totaling more than $25,000,000.

One of the company's plants, which has a separate wage agreement with the union, was not affected by the strike.

Present wage rates were not announced.

DenUyl, who said that one struck plant was making aircraft bearings and that other production included submarine chaser parts, charged in a statement that "subversive influences" were responsible for the strike.

He said a contract negotiated with the union last December had "substantially increased" wages and asserted that the union's present demand was "served on us as a take it or leave it ultimatum."

Machinists Indicate They'll Give In

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—AFL machinists today were represented as willing to return to work in five of 11 strike-bound shipyards, if President Roosevelt so requested.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported in Washington to have "virtually ordered" the 1,200 machinists to return to their jobs, in a conference with Harvey Brown, head of the International (AFL) Association of Machinists, with which the strikers are affiliated.

Harry Hook, business agent for the machinists here, said his men "probably" would return to the yards, if Mr. Roosevelt asked them.

Plans Temporary Wheeling Factory

WHEELING, W. Va. — (U.P.) — President E. W. Krause of the Wheeling Machine Products company proceeded with plans to open a temporary factory today with the conviction that the fire which destroyed his plant was the work of saboteurs desirous of delaying the fulfillment of his national defense orders.

Federal, state and local authorities sought two men for questioning today after uncovering evidence of sabotage.

Reported to be from eastern Ohio, the men sought were seen loitering about the plant on several occasions prior to the fire, and were believed to have stolen bomb detonators which were being manufactured at the plant.

After an examination of the ruins, Police Chief Alonzo Hixenbaugh and two agents of the federal bureau of investigation announced last night they had found evidence of incendiarism.

Ohio Without Troops If It Needs Them

COLUMBUS — (UP) — In the event the federal government wished to quell a disturbance or operate an industrial plant in Ohio, the troops to do the job would have to be imported from outside the state.

State military authorities pointed out today that the state does not at present quarter anything more than a skeleton army force within its borders.

The Ohio National Guard has been in federal service in the south since last October. The regular army units at Fort Hayes, Columbus, have been reduced to a handful to make room for handling of draftees.

The state guard, authorized for establishment by the last legislature, is still in the blue-print stage with appointment of top ranking officers and orders for equipment being made during the last two weeks.

funds for new thousands of warplanes, armored equipment and other sinews of defense.

The house measures would:

1—Forbid payment of any of the money to any person or company failing or refusing——for a period of 10 days—to abide by recommendations of the defense mediation board;

2—Forbid payment of any of the money to any person who maintained a picket line "or otherwise seeks forcibly to prevent" the return of workers to their jobs after a strike has been certified as injurious to the defense effort.

The mediation board would have the responsibility of certifying injurious strikes to President Roosevelt.

Until late last night, one jarring governmental blow after another was struck at defense industry strikes which officials believe uncalled for. Hard upon the military seizure and operation of the North American plant came these developments:

1. The attorney general, citing legal authority for the presidential order, spoke of the UAW walkout as a quasi-insurrection and accused its leaders of following "the Communist party line."

2. Selective service chiefs made liable to military training men who go on strike after being deferred because of employment in essential preparedness industry.

There was a "bright spot" which board officials welcomed in the labor scene, however.

Southern soft coal mine operators, bowing to a mediation board recommendation that they boost daily wages 40 cents to a $7 base, were to meet with the CIO mine workers and northern operators in Washington today to fix on terms of a wage contract.

Their decision to accept board terms ended the threat of a second walkout of 400,000 bituminous miners in the seven-state Appalachian fields. After the walkout in April, which caused some steel blast furnaces to shut down, the wage scale was raised $1, making the pay $6.60 in the south, $7 in the north.

The new decision will thus end the historic 40-cent differential between northern and southern operators, principal demand of the U.M.W.

Mrs. Clara Fauser, 62, Dies After Sunday Accident; 2 Others Recovering.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Clara Fauser, this morning of a fractured pelvic bone and internal injuries suffered when an automobile driven by her brother, J. H. Ulmer of Galion, collided with another at the intersection of State Route 47 and U. S. Route 31 Sunday.

Mrs. J. H. Ulmer and Miss Lydia Ulmer, injured in the same crash, are in satisfactory condition at the Galion and Bucyrus hospitals.

Mrs. Fauser was first taken to the Marion hospital, but as there was no room there, she was brought here.

She is survived by a son, Ernest Fauser, Granite City, Ill.; a brother, J. H. Ulmer, Galion, driver of the car; a sister, Miss Lydia Ulmer, Bucyrus, injured in the crash, and one granddaughter.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at St. John's Reformed church with Rev. J. H. Plum in charge. Burial will be in the Whetstone cemetery.

Mrs. Fauser taught school in Crawford county 12 years before marrying the late George F. Fauser who died in 1913.

ment on the production line is 6,000 men daily and 3,000 at night.

A spokesman who declined use of his name reported that little effective work was done yesterday. The men who reported were not well apportioned among the various departments, causing a bottleneck.

Production was smoother on the night shift, however, he added.

Richard T. Frankensteen, CIO national director of aviation, said that skilled workers would be brought from other organized plants over the nation, if necessary.

The draft board in Inglewood, where most of the plant workers live, estimated that 2,000 aircraft employes are on its deferred list. A board statement said: "If any men continue to defy the president and their own union, we will reclassify them at once."

Some 30 persons were injured, 11 seriously enough to require hospital treatment, before or during the army occupation of the North American plant.

Meanwhile, a new strike threat arose at the even bigger plant of Consolidated Aircraft Corp. at San Diego.

AFL machinists announced that an all-day strike vote would start at 5:30 a. m. PST (8:30 a. m. EST) today against the corporation which holds $700,000 000 in military plane orders as compared with North American's $200,000,000.

The strike ballot was called after Harry Malcom, federal conciliator, reported "progress" last night after five hours of negotiation, and set another meeting today.

The union, demanding an increase in hourly wage from 50 to 60 cents and an automatic raise to 75 cents after six months, said it represented 14,000 consolidated employes, though it laid claim to only 7,500 members in the plant.

PASS PETITIONS

SHELBY—Petitions today were being circulated to have the name of David Kinsell placed on the primary election ballot as a candidate for the Fourth Ward council post.

Kinsell, who has run a number of times before the post, was defeated last election by Charles Swanger, president councilman from the Fourth Ward who is not expected to run for re-election this year.

AXIS LAUNCHES VIOLENT ATTACK AGAINST CYPRUS

New Air War Phase Starts as Allied Columns Close In on Damascus, Beirut.

Mediterranean, Cyprus has been a British crown colony since 1914. Its seizure by the Axis would provide another stepping-stone to the Middle East and a closer base for aerial attacks on the Suez canal.

Advancing from three directions, British and Free French troops threatened the capital cities of Damascus, Syria, and Beirut, Lebanon, with swift capture in the three-day-old invasion of France's Middle East colonies.

British military circles said the Allies should be within 30 miles of both cities—perhaps less.

Vichy French defenders of the colonies were pictured by the British as offering only "token resistance," apparently reluctant to open fire on their fellow countrymen and former comrades-in-arms.

Reports reaching Vichy, however, augured trouble ahead for one of the three Allied columns, striking from British-mandated Trans-Jordan. It was said that the Shiek of the Druses, fanatic warrior tribe in the Jebel Ed Druz mountains south of Damascus, had ploclaimed loyalty to the French government of Marshal Philippe Petin.

Vichy quarters insisted their defense forces in Syria and Lebanon were still holding out all along the line, and a semi-official source described the situation as "not too bad."

In the Far East, the critical dispute between Japan and the Dutch East Indies took a darker turn as Japanese negotiators were reported on the verge of being called home.

Domei, the official Japanese news agency, said it was "a mere question of time" before the negotiators will be recalled as a result of a "very unsatisfactory" reply given by Dutch authorities to Japanese trade proposals.

Generally, the Tokyo press blamed Britain and the United States for the Dutch refusal to meet Japanese demands for such war supplies as tin, oil and rubber.

The newspaper Kukumin declared bluntly that the Dutch answer "signifies the start of a war for supremacy in the west Pacific between Japan and the Anglo-American camp."

Off the Lebanese coast powerful units of Britain's eastern Mediterranean fleet were said to be waiting—ready to turn big guns on French coastal defenses or to block any German move to join the defenders.

German diplomatic sources in Turkey declared last night, however, "no German soldiers will be sacrificed in Syria" and said "it's entirely up to the French."

Authoritative reports were heard in the Turkish capital that the Germans had ordered advance army and air force personnel out of Syria at once. Authorized spokesmen in Berlin reiterated the German claim that "there are no German troops in Syria."

Unofficial reports reaching London yesterday said 183 Nazi parachutists had been captured in the Allied drives into the French territory.

Other developments in the international picture included:

BATTLE OF ATLANTIC—Italian submarines reported they sank nine ships totaling 63,000 tons in a recent attack on a British convoy in the Atlantic.

ETHIOPIA — Premier Mussolini's high command said the Italian garrison at Debra Tabor, in the Lake Tana sector 200 miles north of Addis Ababa, had rejected British demands for surrender and was fighting off violent new attacks.

NORTH AFRICA — The Germans reported that two British scouting parties from the siege-bound garrison at Tobruk, Libya, had been thrown back with sharp losses. Axis warplanes continued to bomb the beleaguered fortress.

AERIAL WARFARE — RAF bombers made widespread attacks yesterday on German shipping along the channel coasts of Nazi-occupied Norway, Holland, Belgium and France. Poor visibility prevented observation of the results.

In Cairo, it was officially announced that 357 persons were killed and 123 wounded in Axis bombing assaults on Alexandria, Egypt, site of Britain's main naval base in the Mediterranean, last Wednesday and Saturday nights. In the second raid, 410 were killed and 31 wounded.

Churchill Defends Crete Operations

LONDON—(UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today that Britain has been sending arms to the Middle East by every route and method and running "very great risks," particularly in the British Isles, to support the Mediterranean war front.

Churchill defended himself vigorously against criticism of the British defeat in Crete and asserted that "we have been sending armaments to the Middle East by every route and method."

He struck back at his critics, particularly Leslie Hore-Belisha, former war secretary, whom he charged had left the war office in "lamentable" condition after two years and seven months as its head.

GALION CHURCH GROUP STAGES ANNUAL PARTY

First Methodist Church Has Mother-Daughter Banquet Monday Night.

GALION — Monday evening marked the annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Naomi class at the First Methodist church. There were 65 present for the dinner served by the King's Daughters of the church, and for the program that followed.

Toastmistress for the occasion was Mrs. Otto Carmel. The program was planned by Mrs. J. V. Dye, and consisted of toasts by Mrs. E. G. Metcalf and Joan Spaid; songs by a trio comprised of Marjorie Ann Dye, Helen Swisher and Connie Loren of Mt. Gilead, accompanied by Betty and Alice Hill; violin numbers, Belva Ross; and a talk about the Philippine Islands given by Mrs. Don McClarren who appeared in native costume and displayed many articles she brought back with her when she returned to Galion recently.

Other chairmen who planned the affair were Mrs J. F. Bemiller, menu; and Mrs. C. S. Kirk and Mrs. J. V. Dye, decorating.

In connection with the monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society at First Reformed church, a reception was held for Mrs. Ward Hartman who returned recently from China where she had been stationed with her husband, Rev. Ward Hartman and their daughter, Lucile, as missionaries.

Mrs. Hartman appeared in Chinese costume, giving a talk about the country and missionary work there, and exhibiting many articles brought back from the nation when she came to Galion several days ago. A business session was in charge of Hattie Brick who also had the scripture reading: Mrs. Lena Hocker offered prayer and gave a reading; and Mrs. Homer Rensch had a paper. Two numbers were sung by Mrs. Burrall Iams.

Strong Cure For a Grave Ill

YESTERDAY'S two drastic steps by the government at the North American airplane plant in California were inevitable—yet they were sensational.

No exact parallel has been found for calling in the army to re-open a struck plant during peace-time.

There are, however, parallels for the decision of the selective service head quarters to re-classify draft registrants who have been deferred because they were working on defense jobs. President Wilson issued a similar edict, "Work or Fight," back in the last war—but then we were at war.

There should be satisfaction over the fact that the army's quick action has effectively broken the strike—but there should be concern as to why and how such a situation can arise.

For the government to be forced to call on the army to break strike can bode no good for organized labor. Neither can the action of the strike leaders who defied the federal mediation board, their own union superiors and the president himself to keep the strike in effect. Nor can revelations of the Dies committee, that on several occasions testimony was produced to show definite Communist and Nazi activity in the CIO local at the North American.

Even if this be an isolated instance, the entire labor movement has been dealt a severe blow by the actions of the west coast union—a blow that all labor should not have to bear.

Sober, thoughtful union leadership did not condone such drastic, radical steps.

Management, generally, will like the situation no better. When the army moves in, the government is in control. Many employers will see and fear in that move a step toward government control of all industry.

If such strikes continue, there will be genuine grounds for such fear.

Practically unanimous, however, will be public opinion that no other step was open in this case to the government. The voice of the president had been ignored. The voice of union superiors had been ignored. A working agreement with the company had been broken.

It had all come down to a point where a decision had to be made as to whether law and order, or headstrong, radical unionists were to prevail.

Union men, employers and the general public will all hope that the need to use the army to break a strike will not arise again—that this one instance of how effectually the force of the government can operate, if it must, will be sufficient to dissuade anyone from testing it again.

Defense work, like military training, must go on unhampered in these perilous times.

And while men give up their jobs to serve in the army for $21 a month, no right thinking person can disagree with the decision of the selective service headquarters to call up those men who, having been deferred from military service to work on defense jobs, refuse to work.

Paying Tribute to Old Glory

MANSFIELD citizens share the great American heritage of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness which the flag symbolizes, and Flag day presents to Mansfielders an opportunity to honor that heritage. . . . "

With these words J. Leo Hartman launched the city's observance of Flag week, of which he was named chairman by Mayor W. J. Locke.

Outwardly, Mansfielders can demonstrate their respect for this symbol of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness by displaying the flag correctly throughout the week which climaxes with Flag day Saturday.

Inwardly they can do more. They can recall the Continental Congress' establishment of the national flag, June 14, 1777, with the resolution which read: "Be it resolved that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

It may also be recalled that it was first intended to add both a stripe and a star for every new state but that by 1818 the number of states in the union had grown to 20 and it became clear that many more would be added. Hence congress reduced the number of stripes to the original 13 and provided that one star should be added for each new state, effective on the Fourth of July following the state's admission to the union.

All the history tied up with the flag through the growth of its field of stars down to May 30, 1916, when President Wilson proclaimed June 14 as the first national Flag day and on to the present, can well be brought to mind.

"AFRICA SPEAKS"

He Knees His Troubles Away

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The capital here and there:

Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, the cavalry man who has been called in to head the army's public relations division, has developed a system of kneeing his troubles away.

The General has a lot to do—his hours and duties would make a lazy man pull the covers right over his head. But one of his worst duties is greeting job-seekers (or their mothers and fathers and uncles and brothers) who think public relations is a soft and undangerous berth in which to go through a national emergency—and crackpots, both sincere and selfish, who want to sell the army some great scheme for selling the army to the nation.

As usual, these people are as long-winded as an auctioneer. they cannot often be slowed down, hurried up, or turned from the path they have taken.

Maybe it was thinking in such terms that gave the former general of cavalry his idea. Maybe he remembered what a little knee-pressure did to a horse.

At any rate, if you're a pest and the General lolls back in his chair, raises his arms behind his head and ever so inconspicuously slides his left knee to the drawer wall of his desk—you might as well pick up your hat and beat a retreat. What the General's knee strikes is a little button that sets off a buzzer in the outer office. Almost before it has buzzed its last there will be an aide informing the General that other matters demand his attention.

If you think this a little bit unfair, run over the pests you would like to give the knee so gracefully.

The President carries his patriotism right into the swimming pool. Hanging on the hook of his dressing room door in the White House pool are blue trunks, white tops—and angling across the latter the small red letters: "F. D. R."

Paydays in Washington have been as traditional as Christmas, Easter and July 4. They come on the first and fifteenth of the month, but "national defense" is wrecking that. Staggered paydays are starting — with government employes in many departments hereafter being paid on the eighth and twenty-third of the month . . . and the likelihood that within a few months paydays will be so staggered that some government employes will be getting paid every day. If you think that won't make a difference in Washington, you don't know your capital. Merchants have been keying their sales; bartenders and restaurateurs, their stocks; and taxi drivers, their hours on the street, to government paydays for years. With everyday a government payday, how's a man going to figure?

Listen World!

'Sail on! Sail on!'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HIKING down the trail from the old fence line, with the thrushes calling far back in the pines and a fox yipping somewhere down the gully. Dust spurted in soft, fragrant puffs beneath my mocassins. Light slanted, amber dark, between the great, reddish trunks . . . lay pooled, honey bright, on the cleared meadow below. Along the ridge, above the alfalfa field, the cabins stretched, banked with shadow . . . showing an orange window . . . a column of blue smoke.

Dear peace! The quiet, rooted, well-loved things.

Then, abruptly, it swooped on me again, that darkness of doubt that's blinding us all around these days. Rooted? No, nothing was rooted any more. Anything, everything, might go at any hour. Peace? Where was there place for it in this nightmare end of a world? Where was the order . . . the progress of which we'd been so proud? What code was there left for a decent soul to follow?

Dreadful questions, filthy as black bats, flapping, folding around my brain, as they must do around yours, these days. For a moment the whole, lovely twilit world went foul with them. And then, suddenly—yes, this is true—the purpling mountains were gone and the dimming fields . . . and I was a little girl in a country school again. A frightened little girl, "reciting a piece" on a Friday afternoon, with Jimmy Higgins picking his warts and Jean Stewart snickering and Miss Durner waiting impatiently for me to get started.

Why couldn't I? Last night, in the lamp light with Mother and Dad, it had been so easy. So splendid! I would surprise them all. Nobody else in our class had ever recited Joaquin Miller's "Columbus"! But now that I was here—I began to whimper. And then, without knowing how it happened, the great words caught me up, they were blowing through me like bugles, I was beyond the school room, beyond the world!

"Behind him lay the gray Azores,
Behind the Gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shoreless seas.
The good mate said: 'Now must we pray,
For lo! the very stars are gone.
Brave Admiral, speak, what shall I say?'
"Why, say,' "Sail on! sail on! and on!' "

"Sail on!" What terrible words they must have been. More terrible than anything we can now conceive. For they were literally without hope or horizon, lost in an ignorance deeper than any night, beset by scurvy, storm and searing sun, and their own monstrous fear. Fear mounting into mutiny. For what sane man was there who did not know the earth was flat? And yet, that lean and haunted creature on the bridge could cry, "Sail on!"

And so it came to that last, awful night:

"They sailed. They sailed. Then spake the mate:
"This mad sea shows his teeth
tonight.
He curls his lip, he lies in wait,
With lifted teeth, as if to bite!
Brave Admiral, say but one good word:
What shall we do when hope is gone?'
The words lept like a leaping sword:
'Sail on! sail on! sail on! and on!' "
"Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck,
An peered through darkness.
Ah, that night
Of all dark nights! And then a speck—
A light! a light! a light! a light!
It grew, a starlit flag unfurled!
He gained a world; he gave that world
Its grandest lesson: "On! sail
on!"

"ON! SAIL ON!" Those three words broke the trail to America and set the course for Americans ever to follow. There is no other way through the bat-black nightmare of double and demoralization than that simple command, "ON! SAIL ON!"

Let's Look Around

San Jose and Its Mystery House

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Before even starting to take a look around this west coast city, about which we have heard so much, let's take a glance at the incidents and experiences of yesterday, when we swung around the east coast of San Francisco bay for short stops at San Jose, Santa Clara, and then up to "SF" as it is locally known, by way of Palo Alto, Menlo Park and San Mateo.

San Jose nestles beautifully in the Santa Clara valley, with mountain ranges rising to the east and west, and, once more, the superlative enters, as Santa Clara county, of which this is the county seat, is "the largest canning and dried fruit packing center in the world."

Growth of 11,000 in the past ten years places San Jose's present population slightly above 68,000.

Like all California cities, San Jose makes much of flower growing and the municipal rose garden, now in prime of bloom, is pointed to with pride.

Here also, and not far from the rose garden, we found the elaborately developed world headquarters of the Rosicrucian Order, which is explained as "a non-sectarian fraternity devoted to the investigation and study of the higher principles of life as found expressed in man and nature."

Beautifully landscaped grounds surround the temple, planetarium and Egyptian museum and students come from all states and many countries to study Rosicrucian teachings.

PROBABLY in top place as a novelty attraction in the San Jose area is what is known as "the Winchester Mystery House," about which you may, or may not, have heard.

This house, as seen by visitors, resulted from the strange mental quirks of the widow of William Winchester, son of the founder of the Winchester arms company and inventor of the Winchester rifle. The "house" is probably as weird an architectural monstrosity as can be found anywhere in the world.

It appears that Mrs. Winchester, who inherited a fortune of twenty million dollars when her husband died in 1885, and who had an income of $1,000 a day, bought an ordinary nine-room house near San Jose and then became imbued with an idea (conveyed by a spirit) that she would continue to live as long as she added rooms to the house. So, for 36 years, carpenters and other craftsmen were constantly at work adding rooms and making changes—with much left unfinished when Mrs. Winchester died in 1922—at the age of 85.

As a result the original nine-room house grew to one of 160 rooms in which all sorts of freak ideas of a disordered mind were carried out, without regard for cost, and it is estimated that fully five million dollars went into the materials and work of creating this freak structure—which is now owned by a rancher who invites visitors at a 50-cent admission price, plus tax.

THE stop at Palo Alto was only long enough for a look around the fine campus of Stanford university, at which a number of Mansfield boys have been students, and which is much in the national limelight during the football season.

Here also was time out for a call at the home of former Mansfielder Raymond (Tappan Stove) Wheeler, but Ray was in San Francisco for the day, so we missed seeing him. Also a telephone call to Mrs. George A. Wood (Dorothy Eakin), who wishes to be remembered to Mansfield friends, as does also Mrs. Paul Wilmore (Gretchen Peppard), who lives in San Mateo.

And now for a look at San Francisco.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Latest Snubbing of Mediation Board Cinches Anti-Strike Law

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Shortly after Phil Murray was elected head of the CIO last year, an old laborite friend said to him, "Phil, I want to give you one piece of advice. If you don't clean out the Kommies, you, the CIO and the whole labor movement will live to regret it."

A devout Catholic, Phil Murray is no left-winger. But he is tied to the iron apron strings of John L. Lewis, who also is no left-winger but has been playing ball with them for his own ends. So Murray did not purge the Communists and, as his friend predicted, has lived to regret it.

For that defiant statement of O. M. Orton, left-wing president of the CIO Woodworkers, refusing to settle the Puget Sound loggers strike, actually was not aimed at the National Defense Mediation board in general but at Murray in particular.

Murray is a member of the Mediation board, and had approved the terms it proposed to settle the strike. Later, when Orton refused to submit the settlement to the strikers for a vote, Murray signed the board telegram to Orton ordering him to Washington to explain his action. And at that meeting Murray severely condemned Orton for recalcitrance.

With this bawling out ringing in his ears, Orton issued his nose-thumbing pronunciamento, calling the Mediation board "a labor-busting organization" and declaring that he was following the "true trade union" principles of John L. Lewis.

At first Murray took this slam without a word of reproof—as Orton figured he would if confronted with Lewis' name. CIO insiders say Orton had a secret talk with Lewis before throwing his brickbat. But Murray's friends stirred him to action.

They pointed out that this was the showdown, that if Murray backed down he was through for good, that it would do irreparable damage to the CIO. Under this strong urging Murray struck back, denouncing Orton's statement as a "lying, reprehensible defamation" of the Mediation board with its two CIO members—Murray and Tom Kennedy of the United Mine Workers.

Cutting Labor's Throat.

However, Orton's defiance already is playing hob with organized labor as a whole on Capitol Hill. It has clinched the early enactment of legislation that will curb the right of labor to strike in defense industries. Even if he wanted to, Roosevelt now couldn't stop it. The bill would be passed overwhelmingly over his veto.

Coming on top of the breach of contract by the AFL and CIO machinists in San Francisco, tying up $500,000,000 worth of desperately needed shipping, and the outbreak of exorbitant pay shakedown strikes on defense projects by AFL building trade unions, the Orton incident was the last straw.

Senator George Norris, lifelong champion of labor, succinctly summed up the situation with these words: "If organized labor had deliberately set out to cut its own throat, the job could not have been done more effectively than these so-called labor leaders have done it."

Some members of the Mediation board are convinced that there is a central directing force behind the outbreak of defiant leftist-led strikes in key defense industries on the Pacific Coast.

Exactly who is doing this secret master-minding they don't know, but they believe that the situation is part of a deliberate policy aimed at sabotaging the defense program. These are some of the inside facts on which they base this view:

Messages and Meetings.

At the close of the original Mediation board conference at which the logging strike settlement was formulated, Orton walked up to Chairman Clarence Dykstra, warmly shook his hand, and said, "I'm very grateful to you for your kind efforts. I'm leaving for home right away and will present your terms to our members. I'm sure everything is going to be all right."

Several hours later Dykstra almost fell out of his chair when an aide showed him a newspaper statement from Orton hotly blasting the peace proposal and denouncing the board as a "labor buster."

L. C. Michener, left-wing Pacific coast director of the CIO Auto Workers, told newsmen in Washington that the walkout at the North American Aviation Co., at Inglewood, Calif., was not the result of any action by the union's negotiators in Washington. Yet the Mediation board has evidence that a message was sent from Washington urging a strike, despite an agreement by the union not to shut down the plant while negotiations were in progress.

Several hours after this message reached Inglewood, the board says, Wyndham Mortimer, left-wing organizer of the Auto Workers, suddenly arrived there and went into a secret conference with the local union leaders. Next morning the plant, piled high with U. S. and British plane orders, was struck.

Note: — Scene in front of a fashionable downtown Washington hotel: A long, gleaming limousine, with a liveried chauffeur in the front seat and Miss Kathryn Lewis, daughter and secretary of John L. Lewis, in an evening gown seated all alone in the rear. Miss Lewis is a member of the executive board of the America First committee.

For years New Dealers and anti-New Dealers have been clamoring for the ouster of well-meaning but bumbling Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Their wish may shortly come true — thanks to her attempt to harpoon the potent labor division of the OPM.

Miss Perkins has long been jealous of this agency which, in effect, has supplanted her department in major labor matters. Recently, as a result of the widespread outcry against her failure to turn crucial defense strikes over to the Mediation board, she named a three-man committee to handle certifications.

The OPM has now discovered that two members of this committee, who are close to Miss Perkins, have drawn up a memorandum recommending that the labor division be abolished.

The OPM crowd is up in arms and swearing vengeance. As they swing a lot of weight at the White House, they may succeed in finally persuading Roosevelt to get rid of her. His loyalty to old friends is the only reason she continues in office.

Note:—Genial, able ex-Governor Clifford Townsend of Indiana, with a farmer background and excellent labor record, now is being strongly urged to replace Miss Perkins.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sidney Kingsley called them Dead End Kids, and Jack London knew them as "Children of the Abyss." . . They are, actually, underprivileged children of the New York slum areas, and one of the great boons to their lot in recent years has been the finely organized Boys' Clubs of New York.

There are some 18 of these clubs. The only one I am familiar with is the Kip's Bay Boys Club at 301 East 52nd street, which utilizes seven floors for the welfare of more than 2,000 kids.

The idea of these clubs is to substitute a healthful environment for that of the street . . . There is a fine swimming pool ,and it is open practically all of the time . . . "That keeps them out of the East River," explains G. Dana Younger, managing director of the club. "If the pool wasn't open, they would spend half their time in the river . . . So we keep it open.

"Before they go in, they have to scrub themselves clean . . . Even if they weren't dirty, they would still have to do this . . . If you make a boy scrub himself thoroughly every day, you teach him the habit of cleanliness. It's something he seldom forgets. That is important."

THE Kip's Bay Boys' club has three gymnasiums (one open air); it has motion pictures, public speaking classes, a library . . . The boys play tennis, checkers, hockey on roller skates . . . They have a fine basketball team and annually play Columbia, City College, NYU and other schools.

Once each week there are parties to which the older boys bring their girls . . . There are woodwork rooms, manual training courses . . . a machine shop . . . "Some of our boys," Mr. Younger tells you proudly, "have become contractors, engineers, even instructors in universities. Here's a case in point . . . We argued with one boy's father for weeks to permit him to go to a university . . . His father worked in a restaurant . . . Finally, he consented . . . Today that boy is a fine engineer. . . . If he hadn't gone to school he would have been drifting at odd jobs today."

ANOTHER Kip's Bay boy is an aerial photographer in the army, stationed at Denver . . . When he was a member of the club he became interested in photography . . . He was encouraged to stick at it . . . The defense program has opened up a new world to him.

The idea back of these clubs, or at least back of the Kip's Bay club, as Mr. Young explains, is "practice, not preach." If they take something away from the boys, they always provide a better substitute. The club is open until 10 in the evenings, except on those evenings when parties are given. Then it is open until 11. This means the boys can come in and have a game of billiards or swim or do anything else they choose, instead of being footloose on the streets.

In short, it's a reprieve for thousands of the slum area children who used to have no place to go. Its fruits are reflected in the character it has built in all walks of life.

Editor, News-Journal:

I would appreciate a few lines of space in your paper to thank all those who worked for the British War Relief garden party and those who attended it for their generosity and co-operation.

Especially, I would like to thank all concerned for their thoughtfulness and consideration with regard to the flowers, lawn, etc. It is nothing short of miraculous that a thousand people could pass through a garden without any damage whatever. The morning after the party there was very little evidence that they had been there the night before.

I am deeply grateful to my fellow citizens of Mansfield and visitors from surrounding communities.

A Farmer's Diary

New Life on the Farm

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE HAVE a fresh cow today, with a nice little Guernsey calf. All afternoon, down in the choicest pasture, the cow paced uneasily, or lay down periodically to rest and rose again tossing her head and swaying on her feet. When I paused to stroke her dark face and chase the horde of flies away from her flank and shoulders she stood very still and appeared to enjoy my sympathy.

At 10 last night when my wife and I came home from the village, we walked along the swamp to the center of the pasture. Before we reached her, we heard a low, sweet moo that seemed to express the essence of bovine joy. The calf was born. It lay curled moistly in the dewy grass while its mother's long rough tongue caressed it and made it presentable.

The meadow was drenched with moonlight and fragrant with early June. We left the cow and calf to enjoy their natural right and went to rest, ourselves.

Very soon after daylight, I slipped along the path between pond and garden and crawled between the wires of the barb wire fence to see the calf better. It looked a different color when its coat was dry. As I approached it struggled up on its feet—but with difficulty, for the hind quarters were still wobbly. But here was energy, and the urge to feed. I steadied the weaving legs and milked a yellow stream from the cow's distended udder full upon the nuzzling black nose. Then the calf took hold.

Later the boys came down from the loft one by one and each told the other. Barefoot and with bare tanned backs, they hurried into abbreviated trousers and went to inspect the newcomer.

The boy of six observed with excited, beaming eyes, "Daddy, last evening we had one cow down there—now we have two. Since it's a heifer, will we keep it, do you think?"

"That little calf don't look like it would ever grow to be a big cow like its mother, does it?" mused the third boy. "Why, it laid down and Betsy acted like she wanted to eat it up. She put her long tongue almost around its neck—but she wouldn't hurt it, would she?"

"Calves are cows' babies aren't they Daddy?" said a third small voice.

And I know these questions are only the beginning. Well—how could a youngster learn more wholesomely the facts of life?

AUDITOR SENDS OUT $384,008 IN TAX FUNDS

Revenue Received at Last Collection Distributed To Subdivisions.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe distributed $384,008 in real estate tax money to Richland county subdivisions and schools today while Treasurer John E. Kolb finished mailing tax statements in preparation for the second half tax collection.

The tax funds represent what was left of the real estate tax receipts for the first half of the year after the auditor authorized advances totaling $295,000 to schools and cities which needed money before the regular settlement was made.

From a total of $686,000 collected during the first half of the year, city and county schools will receive $344,246, or slightly more than half of all receipts for the half-year period. Mansfield schools were allotted $205,030, and Shelby schools $87,515. The county schools' share was $101,701.

Cities and villages will get $142,972, while $107,725 will go to the county and $54,086 to the 18 townships. Mansfield had already drawn $80,000 of its $127,253 share, and Mansfield schools received $190,000 in advance of the settlement, leaving the city's schools only $15,030 in today's allocation of funds.

County Treasurer Kolb said the next collection of real estate taxes will begin officially July 1 and close Aug. 20, although payments are being accepted now by the treasurer.

He said more than 20,000 statements have been mailed to county property owners, showing them how much tax they owe for the rest of the year. Because of the recent changes in house numbers in Mansfield, some of the statements may not reach their destination, he said, and property holders who do not receive them within the next few days were urged to report address changes to the treasurer's office.

Kolb said receipts for the last half of the year will be smaller than for the first half, since a number of property owners paid their taxes for the entire year and special assessments in Shelby were collected for the entire year.

HELD TO JURY

Mansfielder In Jail After Denying Theft Of Jewelry.

Pleading not guilty to a grand larceny charge, Francis Head, 40, of 187 South Main street, was placed in the Richland county jail yesterday in default of $1,000 bond to await action by the grand jury.

Head, arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court, denied that he had stolen $75 worth of jewelry from the home of A. W. Metz, where he is a roomer. Metz charged that Head took two rings and a wrist watch.

IMPROVED MARKETING

BERKELEY, Cal.—(INS)—Agricultural marketing is "going to town"—in a big way. No longer are the merchandising methods for farm produce lagging behind the times. This is the finding of Dr. H. E. Erdman, of the Giannini Foundation of Agricultural Economics. Notable developments he cited include increasing use of refrigerator locker plants, fast freezing of foods, and experimentation on new methods of refrigerating railroad cars.

CHILD GUIDANCE CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Paul Ackerman Chosen to Head Study Group When Annual Meeting Is Held Monday at Home of Mrs. W. W. Mickey.

MRS. PAUL ACKERMAN was elected president of the Child Guidance club when their regular meeting was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. W. Mickey, 203 West Park boulevard. Mrs. Charles Freehafer conducted the business session at which time the officers were chosen for the coming year. Others selected to assist Mrs. Ackerman were Mrs. Robert DeHaven, vice president; Mrs. Lionel Smaltz, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Breckinridge, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Floyd O'Brien, treasurer.

Eighteen attended the program and business session. Mrs. DeHaven spoke on the general topic, "Sex Education," using as her theme, "Training for a Wholesome Life," and reviewing parts of the book, "Step By Step in Sex Education" by Swift. Mrs. Ackerman also spoke on the topic, using as her subject, "Children's Questions." She reviewed three books, "Growing Up" by Schweinetz, "New Patterns in Sex Teaching," and "Being Born" by Strain.

At a late hour a luncheon was served with bouquets of spring flowers decorating the table. The next meeting will be held June 23 at the home of Mrs. William Linton, 146 Arthur avenue.

Evelyn Lash Named Head of Tri Kappas

The June meeting of the Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Barbara SaVene, 356 West Fourth street. Miss Virginia Gerke conducted the business session at which time secret sisters for the coming year were drawn.

Miss Evelyn Lash was chosen the new president of the group and will be assisted by Miss Gerke, vice president; Miss Janet Gadfield, corresponding secretary; Miss June Adams, historian; Mrs. Margaret Betha, recording secretary; Miss Dolores Shafer, treasurer.

Plans were made for an installation dinner, the date and place to be announced later. Bunco was enjoyed during the social period with prizes being won by Miss Adams and Miss Shafer. On Monday evening a party will be given for Mrs. Alex Schwaner at the home of Miss Lash, 224 Atcheson avenue.

Study Club Meets At Daley Home

Miss Geraldine Madden gave a paper on "Great Musicians" at the Monday evening meeting of the Santa Maria Study club held at the home of Mrs. John Daley, jr., 470 West Third street. During the business session plans were made to hold a steak roast July 7. Bridge was the diversion of the evening with prizes going to Miss Martha Grasbaugh and Miss Gertrude McClure.

Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at a long table decorated with a centerpiece of roses. This was the last regular business meeting of the year.

DR. ANDREW ZOLL WEDS COLUMBUS GIRL JUNE 2

Quiet Service Solemnized at Wellsburg, W. Va., for Dr. Zoll and Miss Patricia Pennington, Prominent Columbus Model.

WITH this announcement friends are learning of the wedding of Miss Patricia Florence Pennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pennington, 55 South Warren avenue, Columbus, and Dr. Andrew Frederick Zoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zoll, 423 Mulberry street. The nuptials were solemnized Monday, June 2 at Wellsburg, W. Va., by Rev. M. R. Frayer.

For her wedding Miss Pennington wore a white street length ensemble and a corsage of gardenias. Attending the couple were Dr. James Sanfilippo of Cleveland, a college roommate and fraternity brother of Dr. Zoll and Milton Frayer of Wellsburg.

Mrs. Zoll was graduated from a Columbus high school and Dr. Zoll, a graduate of Mansfield high school, was graduated from the College of Dentistry at Ohio State university in the class of 1940. For the present they will reside with the bridegroom's parents.

The former Miss Pennington is a Columbus photographic and fashion model. She also has been engaged in theatrical publicity. The portrait study shown here is the work of Harold Higgins, Columbus, and is called "Hedy." It has been accepted for salon exhibit in nearly every state in America, also in Argentine, Brazil, Hawaii and Japan and it will be used in the current number of American Photography.

News-Journal Page For Women

Woman Can Be Too Unselfish

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

We've heard a good deal in recent years about equal partnerships in love.

Is it true, as I'm beginning to suspect, that it is just as natural now as it ever was for the man—the leader and protector, as well as the lover—to accept a good deal more than a half share in so-called love partnerships?

Just because so much has been said these latter years about women's independence, just because so many young wives have held jobs and done the housework, have young men come to prefer the girl who is not only deeply loving and devoted but who unselfishly insists on standing squarely on her own two feet?

Or are they still likely to be beguiled, as I fear they always have been, by the self-indulgent coquette who makes herself irresistible by demanding that everything in the world be done for her while she does nothing in return?

Here's a case of a girl whose loss of a lover seems to be due to her complete unselfishness and her innocence of the age-old trickery through which women hold their men friends.

This girl, Grace M., has been deserted by her boy friend. The following letter tells her story:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I had been engaged for two happy years. The wedding date was set and the time drawing near. And now I have lost him. He cares for another girl and has told me so. It is worse than losing my life. I love him with my whole being and always shall.

"And now I can do nothing but cry all night long. Sleep and food are out of the question. Is it my own fault? Do I deserve this misery? Please tell me, Miss Fairfax.

"My boy friend always has had a small salary. I got a job so that we might both save for our new home. Besides that, I never would let Tom take me out, so we could have that much more. We'd sit at home and read, or play games, or walk in the park. We had so many things to plan.

"I thought no two people ever loved each other as we did. In my mind we were just as firmly bound together as though we were married.

"About three months ago he met a girl who began to scheme to get him away from me. She wouldn't lift a finger to help him as I did, and I know she doesn't really love him. But she has him, while here I am with my life ruined and over?"

"GRACE M."

In this case, at least—and who knows in how many others?—it is heartbreaking to admit that abounding love on the girl's part has not been enough to save the day. Did Tom feel too sure of this girl who so generously adored him and who gave up years of her precous youth to slaving in the interest of his future comfort?

Perhaps it would be fairer to say that he was uncomfortable because he really wasn't playing the man's part in this love situation. When a purely selfish siren came along, who gave him a chance to do all the loving, all the working, and likewise all the worrying, he fell for her and for the chance to play a completely masculine role.

We can never love too much. But if we are women, it is perhaps well that we keep some part of our love secret, so that our sweethearts may never be quite sure just what treasures our hearts hold for them. Women have to learn that there is an art in loving as in letting themselves to be loved. It's tragic, indeed, when we lose a lover merely because we didn't know how to weave a few charming tissues of perfectly harmless deceit.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Yes, indirectly," I admitted, "but in a manner most puzzling. "And then, speaking swiftly to avoid interruption, I rushed through the story of our adventures with Carolyn, of our landing her safely at her home, of my interview with Ronald, with his revelation of the astounding letter he had received from Marion, and her request—to him still more inexplicable—that he should show the latter to Mary Veritzen.

Mary's father-in-law exploded at that. He had kept absolute silence through the rest of my story.

"Of all the asinine stupidity," he stormed, "to keep that letter to himself so long! Couldn't he see that there was some sort of clue to the girl's whereabouts hidden in it?"

"He was so nearly insane as to be utterly incapable of coherent thought," I told him, "but I finally persuaded him to let me have the letter and bring it here to Mary."

"You have shown it to her?" Olga asked breathlessly.

"Yes, a few minutes ago," I answered, "and she is certain Marion is using a code which Mary invented for her when they were at the farm together. But, unfortunately, Mary, who was older then and had other things to occupy her, cannot remember the code."

"Oh, how dreadful!" Olga exclaimed.

"But she remembered that the code book is out at the farm," I went on, "and my father is bringing it in with him as fast as he can travel."

"Will Mary be able to decode Marion's letter when she gets the book?" he asked.

"She says she will," I answered, "but she will have to be guarded very carefully while she is decoding it, and afterward."

Olga Is Shocked.

Olga's face paled, and I realized, not for the first time, how Mary, the wife of her stepson, had endeared herself to the older woman.

"Why?" she asked tremulously.

"Because," I answered, "the gangster who knew Carolyn was evidently able to hear our conversation with my father concerning the letter. And he must have warned a confederate in this city before he tried to get it from me."

"Tried to get it?" Olga echoed. "Then you have been in grave danger?"

"No, I wasn't," I returned, "in spite of my folly in taking the journey in here alone although I learned from Carolyn that I was taking the train to New York. But Dicky, without telling me, also took the train, and he saved both the letter and me."

"Dicky ought to have taken a leather strap to you," Philip Veritzen said severely. "But what did he do with the gangster?"

"Put him off the train in his stocking feet," I answered, "with not even a knife as a weapon."

"He probably had identification on the tips of his fingers," Philip said grimly. "Was this far from a station?"

"About ten miles," I answered. "It was in the middle of one of the Massachusetts pine stretches."

"Good lad, Dicky!" Philip commented. "But you are right. The gangster must have contacted this fellow on your balcony before he tackled you, and told him what to do in case you escaped him and came on to New York."

He looked at me with stern reproof when he had finished speaking.

"If your husband had not been quick-witted and resourceful," he said, "I am afraid you never would have reached New York."

Plastic Surgery Now Respectable

By MME. QUI VIVE

Twenty years ago plastic surgery was under suspicion. It has now become respectable and for very good reason; men of standing in the medical profession have seen the light. They know that facial blemishes don't kill, but they make the soul sick, and a sick soul may mean an ailing body. They affect mental health, put a handicap on business and social life. This is particularly true of disfiguring birthmarks, scars, ugly moles and warts.

Because physicians and surgeons considered these matters mere trifles, not matters of life and death; they refused to be bothered with patients who appealed to them for help. The result was that charlatans flourished along with a few capable operators and the charlatans found ready victims, raked in money, did a lot of mischief. Some hospitals discriminated against surgeons who made facial repairs. Operating rooms were not at the disposal of surgeons who used the scalpel for the purpose of remodeling faces.

World War One developed plastic surgery, put it on a higher plane. Thousands of wounded soldiers were treated, and skillfully too. Afterwards, men who had become specialists went on with their work, and their patients included all those who were in need of help.

It is to their credit that human beings don't have to trail sadly through life bearing facial defects. It is a satisfaction to know that men of sterling qualities in the medical profession are willing to give their services in the cause of good looks. There is no longer any need of a woman's seeking out some spider in his web, an outlaw among his medical brothers, whose main idea is to gather in the cash.

The way to find the right specialist is to consult one's family physician; he will be able to recommend a reliable, conscientous man. Diseases of the skin and scalp are treated. If hair causes worry, through thinness or disorders that beset the glorious crown, that too will be given attention.

The most insistent demand comes from the woman who has wrinkles, wants what is known as a facelift. Incisions are made at the temples, just beyond the hair line. Tissues and slack muscles are drawn up, the wound stitched skillfully. That lines disappear and that the surface of the flesh is made smooth has been demonstrated time and again.

In facial surgery such as nose remodeling the most delicate treatment is required. Besides the trained hand, there must be the eye of an artist, an understanding of harmony of features.

Professional service of this kind is expensive, naturally. But it has pulled many a woman out of the ditch of despair. Because good appearance has much to do with happiness.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SQUEEZE TWO TRICKS

Ordinary squeeze plays produce only one more trick than can be counted by other methods, regardless of whether the squeeze be a forward, backward or double squeeze. There is just one type which can furnish you two more tricks, what is called by students a "progressive" squeeze. In it, you first squeeze one defender into unguarding one of three suits. Whichever he unguards, you then use that suit to squeeze him a second time between the other two suits.

	♠ A K Q 6 ♥ Q 8 ♦ 8 7 5 3 ♣ Q 9 4
♠ J 10 9 8 ♥ K J 10 9 6 5 ♦ 9 ♣ K 2	W. N. E. S.	♠ 7 5 3 ♥ 4 3 2 ♦ 10 4 ♣ 8 7 6 5 3
	♠ 4 2 ♥ A 7 ♦ A K Q J 6 2 ♣ A J 10

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♣	4 ♥	Dbl
Pass	Pass	7 NT	Dbl

That was pretty risky billing in the Canadian national championships by the winners. Private Percy E. Sheardown, "C" company, Irish Regiment of Canara, in the North, and Riley H. Horner, also of Toronto, in the South It is a good thing Mr. Horner knew his squeezes, because, when the spade J was led, he could count only 11 tricks and decided West had both missing kings as well as four spades to beat the 6.

So he won the first spade with the Q, ran five diamond tricks and laid down the club A, unblocking the suit by playing the Q under it With the dummy retaining three spades, two hearts and a club, and himself one spade, two hearts, one diamond and two clubs, he laid down the last diamond. West could not toss one of his two hearts or his club K, but had no alternative except something equally bad, one of his three spades, which he discarded. That was squeeze number one, dummy tossing a heart.

Mr. Horner then played to the spade A, cashed the spade K, discarding his club 10, then led the now good spade 6, throwing off the club J. West had to throw his club K, making the dummy's 9 good, or from his heart K-J. He did the latter, so the heart A and 7 took the last two tricks.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, June 11.

An active and eventful day, with all energies bent in the direction of solidifying the affairs and putting them on a stable and enduring basis, should be the augury based on the predominant planetary aspects. There may be some unexpected setbacks, or opposition, with minor difficulties to encounter, but the mind will be shrewd, cold and calculating, equipped to dispose of these and as well the assistance of elders and faithful friends may be counted on. Travel may give concern and there is danger from fraud and misrepresentation, especially in connection with papers.

Those whose birthday it is may find heightened energies concentrated upon putting all affairs, both old and new, on permanent and stable bases. Matters of investment or property may come to life under this concerted attack, as well as because of a subtle, shrewd and quickened mentality sustained by dependable intuitions or hunches. There may be some unforeseen opposition, with want of cooperation from certain expected sources. These, however, are balanced by very tangible aid and endorsement from worthwhile friends, elders or superiors.

A child born on this day will be energetic, industrious, progressive and stable, and possess a shrewd, subtle and calculating mind.

Tomorrow's Problem.

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER X

Emma was about fifty, but she might have been any age between thirty and seventy. Her face was thin, narrow and marked by sternness and reserve. Her graying hair she wore coronet fashion in tight braids in which never a hair was awry. She carried her narrow shoulders high, was almost painfully neat and fresh in appearance and in her speech betrayed the trained nurse's unmistakable attitude.

A strange, cold, repressed woman, Cherry used to think, as Emma, belted into a gray wrapper, sat back panting against her pillows and attacked the day's bills, menus, reports. Cherry brought up a lamp that illuminated the ceiling and sent a soft light down for the invalid's eyes, brought up a glass bowl of crocus blossoms and set it on the table, put a Chinese plate of brown bulbs in the sunshiny south window where Emma could employ times of languor in watching their almost hourly change. And finally, shyly, she brought Emma a tiny kitten, a bundle of wet, wailing fur that she had found by the Presidio wall.

Emma laughed a short, scornful laugh at this last contribution. She never could stand cats, she said. But Cherry, noting the confidence with which the small stray, newly warmed and fed, was advancing toward Emma's languid hand, promised with great confidence that she would remove the little creature the minute he became troublesome.

From that moment the cat was visibly the absorbing consideration of Emma's life, valiantly as she strove to hide her complete capitulation from Cherry. Cappy slept wherever he pleased in the daytime, and curled warmly against Emma's shoulder at night. In the evenings when Cherry sat up the card table and Emma watched her play solitaire, Cappy walked across the cards between intervals of biting thoughtfully at Emma's hand.

"Did you go first to the Marshbanks as a nurse, Emma?" Cherry asked idly one night. Emma looked at her quickly, hesitated before speaking.

"Yes," she answered then. "I'd taken the boys, Fred and Judson, through tonsil operations, and then through scarlet fever, at the hospital when I was in training. The old lady took a liking to me, and when they'd come back from abroad a few years later and I'd been widowed, the old madame—as we used to call Mrs. Marshbanks, though I don't suppose she was more than fifty then—sent for me to take care of the colonel. He'd been struck down with sleeping sickness; he was on a couch for years. Then Miss Louise—she was the only daughter and had married an engineer from Springfield—came home to have the baby. The old lady was so pleased about it—they both talked so much about the grandchild. And then to have both die—yes, that was a bad time. What with one thing and another the old lady all but collapsed herself, and we had her in a nervous breakdown for a couple of years.

"I stayed on as a nurse and housekeeper; I had my sister to support, and it was a comfortable place. I wasn't twenty when I graduated and came to them."

"Was my mother a friend of theirs? No, she wasn't." Cherry said, answering herself. "for I remember the judge saying that he had never seen her. How'd you know my mother, Emma? Did you meet her at the Marchbanks?'"

Emma looked thoughtfully at her companion.

"No; I knew her before that," she finally said. And then, after another pause: "Your mother was my sister Charlotte."

Cherry stared at her. The words did not seem to make sense.

"My mother—" she began in a whisper, and stopped.

"Yes. Your mother was my sister. You were named for her.

"But Emma," Cherry said breathlessly, confusedly conscious of shock and reluctance, "you never told me!"

"Well, you don't always tell children everything," Emma said after a moment. "You weren't but a little thing when your mother died."

"I could have known that!" Cherry exclaimed. A thousand bright dreams vanished with the revelation, and she felt hurt and wronged. But amazement still had first place.

"Maybe I never told you because I didn't think you'd be especially pleased," Emma said dryly. The girl's color came up warmly.

"It's not that! Of course I'm—I'm glad," she stammered. "I've never had any family, and—and of course I'm glad!"

And, immediately, to her own amazement, she burst into tears. She had often imagined what her connections might be; she had never dreamed this. Emma—so contained and cold and distant—her own aunt! Cherry pushed the table away blindly and went to the window, and stood looking out at the dark night, and the fairy lights that shot arrows and flashes through her tears.

"I'm sorry. I was thinking of mother," she presently said. Emma made no comment, and Cherry came back to her seat. She had dried her eyes; but the hands that touched the cards trembled; her throat was thick, and she could not see clearly.

"Mother — mother never told me!" she stammered. "I wish she had!"

Emma had not spoken for some three or four minutes; now she said, in a tone not quite as harsh as her tones sometimes were, "I didn't know how much you remembered your mother, Cherry."

"But I do—lots! I remember getting up on the bed with her after I'd had my bath at night and her telling me a story."

"I guess you remember Flippy," Emma suggested, always with her own particular effect of grimness and brevity. But Cherry suspected she was trying to lighten the situation.

"My old doll that the dog tore to bits!"

Emma added nothing more, and Cherry looked down at her cards with blinded eyes, and made herself move them here and there as if she were playing. She finished her game, and said with a shaking voice that she was tired and thought she would go to bed. Emma still making no comment, Cherry put away the table and asked Emma if there was anything more she could do.

"No," Emma said, "nothing."

The girl came to the bedside, looked down.

"Good night then," she added in a light, level tone, with a resolute smile. "Would you—I would if you liked—shall I call you Aunt Emma" she added hesitatingly.

Emma eyed her steadily for a few long seconds.

"No, I don't know that I'd make any change," she said then, in the same emotionless voice that Cherry had used.

"Need more ice?"

"No; I'm going to listen to the radio and then I'm going to sleep."

"Good night," Cherry said, with a parting second attempt at a smile.

She walked to her own room, slipped into bed and lay with narrowed eyes and a bitten lower lip, pondering. Thought, long denied, came with a rush, and she was drowned in the bitterness of it.

Other girls had mothers and fathers and homes. Other girls left school to step into young ladyhood with dances and frocks and allowances and a thousand other desirable and delightful things to introduce them to life. And she had—she had only the drab background of Saint Dorothea's and this humiliating revelation tonight!

Slow tears began to creep down Cherry's cheeks; presently she began to sob heavily. She cried herself to sleep.

One morning Cherry found herself free at noon, and determined to take one of the long walks she loved, to have a sandwich and a cup of coffee at some corner stall out in the Cliff House direction and not to be back in the house until it was time to preside at the five o'clock tea table. Two old friends were lunching with the now completely convalescent Mrs. Porter, and Emma was quite herself again.

Cherry was some blocks away from home when a low-slung, open disreputable car drew up close to her on the curb and a voice said, "Jump in."

The world wheeled about her for a few dizzy seconds, for it was Kelly Coates who had spoken; he was driving the car and beside him sat Fran Marshbanks smothered in soft fox skins, with a daring red hat topped on her dark hair. Cherry laughed from sheer excitement as she greeted them and stood hesitatingly, wondering if they really wanted her, and if they did why they possibly should.

"I want Mrs. Marshbanks to come and have lunch with me," the man explained it honestly with his wide, flashing smile, "and she won't come unless you do."

"Are you free from those old ogres for a while?" Fran asked in her careless, fascinating, hoarse voice.

"I'm free until half past four." Cherry did not want to go and yet was wild with eagerness to go. The thought that he was in love with Fran made being in Kelly's company exquisitely painful to her, but she had hungered to see these persons again, to be one of them, to know what was going on, and this opportunity would not come twice.

"I'd love to," she said, smiling as she climbed in and wedged herself snugly beside Fran. The moment she did it she regretted it, wondering through what faturity of complacence she had accepted the invitation to play a third in their affair. But why had they asked her?

"Mrs. Marshbanks," Kelly said, "once went to a movie in which a girl visited an artist in his studio, and everything went wrong for fifty years afterwards. Was that it, Fran?"

"Something like that," said Fran's exquisite voice lazily.

"So she didn't want to come home and lunch with me," Kelly went on.

"Perhaps I know my own weakness," Fran contributed idly.

They crossed the bridge and on the eastern shore moved along a wide, smooth highway for a few miles, turned left and mounted an earth road that wound up the hill. Scattered cottages, hidden among oaks and eucalyptus, faced the road here and there. Kelly's place was at the head of a small tree-lined canyon, and consisted of a cottage of perhaps three rooms, a large white barn, various sheds and fences that suggested that the place had once been a small farm. There was an arbor covered with young grape vines, sheltering a long table and two benches, young berry bushes just in leaf, a languishing little garden whose neglected rose and geranium bushes were choked with last season's dried grass and some apple and apricot trees getting ready to bloom.

Cherry was under the spell of the peoce of Kelly Coates' place, its simplicity, its beauty almost before she had gotten out of the car; she had never dreamed of anything so informal, so comfortable, so complete. There was a blackened little brick grill under a pepper tree; there was a bowl of apples mixed with tomatoes and squashes and a big brown onion in the center of the table; there were smaller bowls of blue glass and brown pottery, a copper frying pan or two, wooden spoons and some checked dish towels.

They were all hungry; they fell upon preparations for luncheon together. All this went on in the small kitchen, for a bleak wind had blown up from the south and it was too chilly and overcast out of doors for the arbor to be the dining room, much to Kelly's disappointment. He was nervously hospitable, nervously eager that everything should be right. The women puttered about finding table furnishings, drawing a card table to the fire, asking directions while he brought in great armfuls of wood and crashed them on the hearth. Cherry had not seen him in this mood before, but she understood it. This was Fran's first visit to Topcote, as it was hers, and he was all anxiety that Fran's impression should be a good one.

They were very much in love, Kelly and Fran; Cherry could see that. Or at least Kelly was. Perhaps Fran was only pretending; Cherry could not be sure, but this was evidently a game of which she knew every move.

After lunch he begged them to leave the table disorder just as it was because he could not wait another moment to show them his paintings, and they went to the big barn studio and while Kelly dragged out and dusted canvas after canvas Cherry and Fran stood looking and commenting. Neither one assumed any knowledge of his art, but he accepted their criticisms gratefully and pointed out details of technique with no thought that he might be leaving his audience somewhat behind him.

Presently Fran drifted to the great north window that had been cut down to the floor, and stood looking dubiously between long homespun curtains at the now steadily falling rain. Kelly went over to stand beside her, and after a moment Cherry returned to the house thrilled by the mere nearness of their emotion and realizing what this moment alone might mean to them. For she had not been blind and deaf to the apparently casual phrases and glances that had been sprinkled through the luncheon talk; she was not unaware that Judge Marshbanks was Othello; she had even heard Fran at a moment when she supposed herself out of hearing in the kitchen answer some remark of Kelly's with a patient: "Because he may find out about it and it'll be all right if I say she was along!" and then, in another second, "No, but I did promise, Kelly, and I'm breaking my promise."

Cherry had heard no more, and what she did hear had not surprised her. She had surmised from a quick, open remark or two made in the car that Judge Marshbanks had asked his wife not to see Kelly, and that the two had met by chance and were risking a discovery that might have been extremely uncomfortable for them both.

Streamliner "Torpedo" Six Sedan Coupe $923*

A GENERAL MOTORS MASTERPIECE

"YOU BET I LIKE my 1941 Pontiac 'Torpedo' better than any car I've ever owned. And why shouldn't I? It's brimming over with pep, power and getaway. It's a beauty inside and out. In fact it's everything Pontiac owners told me it would be.

"But it's even more than that. Pontiac is the first big car I've ever had—and I can tell you there's a whale of a difference between owning a big car and a small one. You have more room of course—but that doesn't begin to tell the story. You get a big car ride—and by that I mean Pontiac gives you enough length and weight, without which no car can really be comfortable.

"But most important of all is the feel Pontiac gives you—you know you've really got hold of something when you get behind the wheel! Call it pride of ownership or whatever you like, but Pontiac certainly gives you a lot of it!

"Yet Pontiac is priced so low that my monthly payments are unbelievably small. Also I'm getting even better gasoline and oil mileage than from the lowest-priced car I previously owned. Furthermore, Pontiac will save me money on repairs and upkeep. So I'm saving plenty all around.

"Yes, sir—I signed off motoring worries when I signed the order for a Pontiac 'Torpedo.' You'd better do the same—today—at your Pontiac dealer's!"

ITALY SHARES IN CONQUESTS AT HEAVY COST

Fascists Estimate 245,075 Men Killed, Wounded or Captured First Year.

By JAMES M. LONG
(AP) Staff Correspondent)

Italy's first year in the war has given Premier Mussolini a junior-partner's share in two major conquests at a cost of his East African empire, a quarter-million men and much of his battlefleet.

Twice after he shouted to followers a year ago today "We are descending into the battlefields. . . . the die is cast" he sent his armies into military ventures of their own.

Twice, after reverses that cost him heavily, his partner, Adolf Hitler, hurled the weight of Nazi arms into the balance and pulled an Axis victory out of the fire of battle.

Italy gained a thin strip along the French Riviera, won and lost British Somaliland, tacked onto her Albanian territory most of the Epirus section of northwestern Greece, and took under her wing Croatia, torn from northwestern Yugoslavia. The gains amounted to about 35,000 square miles.

But she lost more than 550,000 square miles—her East African empire of Somaliland, Eritrea and all of Ethiopia except a few islands of resistance.

Italy's first gleanings from the harvest fields of triumph which Il Duce had promised came with the fall of France. The second of what Mussolini termed "glorious victories for Italian arms" came 10 months later when Greek generals signed a surrender.

Between these victories Italy had seemed on the verge of losing Albania to the Greeks and Libya to the British.

Fascists estimated yesterday that Italy's first-year losses in men totaled 245,075—22,199 killed, 55,617 wounded and 167,259 captured and missing.

The British have said Italy's naval losses were so great as to cripple the striking power of her fleet. They have claimed four of Italy's eight battleships put out of action by serious damage, at least seven of her 19 cruisers sunk, and a heavy toll taken of her 127 destroyers and 125 submarines.

British sources said that up to mid-day Italy had lost 1,100,000 tons of other shipping—215 ships sunk, scuttled, captured or seized in western hemisphere ports.

Up and Down THE STREET

Volunteer workers at the Red Cross production center can be heard repeating a variation of "Button, button, who's got the button?" these days as garments are completed with the exception of the necessary buttons. An appeal for buttons in sets of three for women's dresses and in sets of five for boys' trousers went out from the center today through Mrs. William Bishop of the executive board, now assisting in organizing volunteer workers for summer assistance. Any one wishing to contribute these items will help speed up work towards the next quota, Mrs. Bishop said.

George Adkins, transient, is sitting in the Richland county jail firmly convinced that he shouldn't bite the hand that won't feed him. He pleaded guilty to assault and battery yesterday before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court. Adkins was arrested on the complaint of a citizen who said that Adkins tried to beat him up after he had had refused to give him a dime. The citizen said that Adkins was panhandling on Main street.

Robert Miller, former assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, now assistant at South Bend, Ind., has a belated wedding present coming. Back in March when Miller was married, Robert Remy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, went shopping for a wedding gift. He left it at a down town store for John Routzon, C. of C. secretary, to pick up and mail. Routzon, with other things on his mind, forgot all about it until the other day. And now after about three months' of reposing on the shelf, the gift is on its way.

Patrolman Frend Boals is wondering whether his authority while out of uniform is waning. He received a note from Police Chief Meade K. Bates yesterday asking what he knew about a group of boys who were breaking windows in an apartment neighboring that of Boals. Boals found that the boys were practicing shooting at the apartment windows with BB guns.

TEXAS STORM TAKES HEAVY TOLL OF LIFE

Town of 3,000 Washed Out as City Water Supply Dam Breaks.

(By Associated Press)

A 20-foot wall of water from a broken city water supply dam swept away more than a score of houses today in Albany, Tex. Heavy loss of life was feared.

Three persons were trapped when the flash flood roared down Little Hubbard creek in the southwestern part of the town of 3,000. Their bodies were recovered.

Six members of the Paul Alexander family were missing and rescue workers held little hope for them.

Unaccounted for were eight families living in a Humber pipeline crew's camp just above Lake Diller.

The sudden rush of a torrent from a 10-inch rain swept away 1,300 feet of the dam at Lake Diller, from which Albany has been drawing its city water since a newer lake washed away two months ago.

The Texas disaster came while rising rivers and creeks threatened further woe to midwestern and southwestern states. Already the known death toll was 29 in the past three days.

Hopeful notes were injected, however, by a forecast that rains would cease in Missouri and Kansas after today and by word from Nebraska that most flooding streams in that state either had reached or passed their crests.

Usually small streams were dealing the most trouble but the Big Missouri river neared flood stage at Nebraska City and Kansas City and there were some fears the Kaw might not be able to carry the full load from its rampaging tributaries. The Kaw flows into the Missouri at Kansas City.

There was no accurate estimate of property damage but thousands of acres of rich botton farmland were inundated, livestock was drowned. Business houses and residences were flooded in several towns. Highway travel was disrupted by bridge washouts and high water in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska. Railroad washouts were reported in Missouri and Kansas.

Tornadoes yesterday and Sunday night accounted for 12 of the dead—eight near Wichita, Kas., and four in the Texas Panhandle. Two women drowned in southwest Iowa and two men near Marysville, Kas. Lightning killed two in western Missouri. A gust of wind toppled two carpenters to their deaths from a light tower at a bombing assembly plant under construction at Tulsa, Okla.

Hardest hit town was Marysville, Kas., on the Big Blue. Officials estimated a fourth of its population of 4,500 was homeless. The two hospitals were crowded, as many children with measles were segregated from other refugees. The city water supply was cut off and officials ordered all drinking water boiled. A drinking water shortage also was threatened at Hubbell, Neb.

LISTS RATES ON ASSESSMENTS

Auditor Announces Schedule For Payment of Street Improvement Costs.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley announced today the rates per foot frontage for property owners paying assessments for improvements on streets abutting their property.

Property owners may pay the assessments within the next 30 days at Kelley's office or allow it to go one their tax duplicate for payment in installments.

Highest assessment is that for the repaving of Fourth street. Property owners will pay $1.43 per foot frontage on the street. The total assessment was $18,-125.45, according to Kelley.

Other rates will be: Poplar street-Sloan avenue, grading and graveling, $1.27 per foot, $3,371.47; Barnard avenue, grading, 98 cents per foot, $1,996; and Taylor road, sanitary sewer, 79 cents per foot, $1,854.78.

The other assessments are figured on the benefit plan. Property owners pay according to estimates on the added value to the property and the benefits received by the improvement.

SEARCHERS FIND OFFICIAL, SON, TRAPPED UNDER CAR FIVE DAYS

SAN DIEGO — (AP) — Soldiers searching for two missing army officers unexpectedly found a Mexican customs official and his son who, for five days, had lain pinned under an automobile at the bottom of a 200-foot canyon.

The father, Joaquin Miranda, clutched in his left hand—his right was fast under the car—a pistol which all but two bullets had been fired in an effort to attract attention. The two remaining bullets, he said, were to stop his son's and his own suffering if the pain became unbearable.

Miranda, customs officials at Tijuana, said his son, Manuel, 10, who was caught by the right leg, had pleaded with him to amputate the leg so he could crawl for help.

Father and son were given first aid, then taken to the army hospital at Camp Lockett where physicians pronounced them out of critical danger. However, it was possible that the father's arm and the boy's leg might have to be amputated.

The missing officers, Lt. Robert E. Maxwell, 25, Camp Lockett adjutant, and Lt. Howard D. Wetherell, 22, horsemanship instructor, were last seen at 4:45 a. m. Saturday.

Forty-four soldiers and officers searched highway canyons on the theory the officers' car might have plunged over a bank but could find no trace of them.

GIVE VERDICT

Jurors Refuse Damages In $50,000 Suit Against OPS.

Richland county petit jury today brought in a verdict in favor of the Ohio Public Service company, defendant in a $50,000 damage suit filed by John M. Grubaugh.

The court sustained a motion for a directed verdict asked by the defendant upon completion of the plaintiff's testimony.

Grubaugh sought damages for injuries which he allegedly received when he grasped a power line while moving a house in Rome. He contended that the power line was too low over the street and was not insulated.

Grubaugh was represented by Attys. H. M. Rust and O. W. Kennedy. Attys. C. H. Henkel and J. H. Gongwer were the defense counsel.

Highway Director Sours Scoffs At Ohio Canal Idea

COLUMBUS — (UP) — State Highway Director Hal Sours today threw "cold water" on an idea to increase the water supply for industries by running a canal down the center of a new superhighway to be constructed near Cincinnati.

The proposal came from David S. Warner, venerable unpaid and unoffiical Ohio water conservation expert. He suggested placing a canal in the center of the proposed superhighway for the Mill creek valley instead of the usual grass strip.

"There are a number of reasons why I'm not in favor of making a canal out of a highway," Sours said after hearing Warner's idea. "The cost would be great, some safety would be sacrificed, there would be danger of stagnant water and the possibility that seepage would undermine the highway subgrade."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—All of us ain't-nature-grand people have to come to Hollywood to find out how wrong we are.

Here's where nature is all right in its place, but its place is not on a movie stage. Look at that brook there—here, I mean, on the set of 'Smilin' Through.'

ROBBIN COONS

It's a nice, pleasant brook. It flows through the English garden where Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond pitch woo and dialogue, where Brian Aherne keeps tryst with his lost love. It twists obligingly through the masses of bushes, flowers, trees, wide lawn, and all the greenery, for a course of 125 feet.

Looks romantic as Moonyeen in the moonlight, but just look outside the stage—a big, electric-power pump, its sound muffled by boxes of sand banked around, by a huge muffler at the "head" of the stream. And where there's water there has to be plumbing. The pipes run from outside, underground, and up into the garden.

The brook ripples prettily over rocks, but it ripples only on signal. Compressed air controls each rip of its rippling, each gurg of its gurgling. When the lovers are dishing the mush, our brook obliges with a soft romantic obligato. When the scene is sorrowful, the brook gurgles a muted, plaintive dirge. It's got no soul, nor trout, to call its own.

Snow, now, is more independent. Snow is having a winter carnival today on the outdoor, but canvas-covered, set of "Illusion." The set represents Edna May Oliver's sea-worthy home on Nantucket, a weather-beaten old house with porch decorations of ship's-heads.

In the wintry weather here prevalent, the landscape is bleak, including the huge "horizon" backdrop which serves where the surrounding water leaves off. They've used some of the usual gypsum and corn flake snow for the distant rocks and rooftops, but the cold, shining McCoy has been squirted generously over the whole. The snow machine rides on a wooden barge, accompanied by a hundred-odd big cakes of ice. When they need new snow, they toss in a dozen or two cakes, turn on the motor, and out it comes, a spraying storm of crushed ice—enough to provision a good-sized Kentucky Derby party with julep frosting.

Recent showing of his rookie hurlers, Jim Coleman, Rudy Okleson and Fred Wolpert, makes Boss Alex Clowson of the Mansfield Braves very happy these days as he scans the schedule and sees that batch of double headers coming up.

Pat Patterson, Chuck Byers and Tony Drewek started the season as veterans and Clowson naturally looked to them to carry the load on the hill.

However Wolpert has crowded Drewek out of the starting role, and now Okleson and Coleman have checked in with impressive winning starts to relegate Tony into the relief job. And a good job of relief hurling Tony did last night, too.

* * *

Thus far this season only Wolpert, Patterson and Byers of the present Braves' staff have started before the home fans.

Wolpert has started four games, Byers three and Patterson three.

Unless rain interferes with the present pitching schedule, Okleson will be on the hill for one of Wednesday's night's games with Tiffin.

Suggestion for Ohio State league managers who keep book on the errors of umpires—List 'em under: Deceived and placed on file.

Dick Behr of the Fremont News-Messenger says of that famous triple play pulled by Mansfield the other evening against the Green Sox at Fremont:

"It was a play that could not have been made had not a man with smoked glasses and a tin cup figured in it somewhere."

Behr contended that instead of catching the pop bunt on the fly, Okleson dropped it, picked it up off the ground and heaved the ball into center field.

Behr also chimes in with: "Mansfield Manager Alex Clowson must think this is a kindergarten league. In the Fremont first, with Vince Oddo on first, Louie Horynak lifted a short fly to the Braves' skipper (playing first base.)

"He caught it, dropped it intentionally, and then tossed to second, trying to claim a force-out on Oddo there.

"Considering what happened later, maybe he had the right idea at that."

It should occasion no surprise. The way we like those umpire guys.

Scientific Oarsmen Wallop Waves

SEATTLE—(AP)—Intercollegiate eight-oared rowing is a much faster proposition these days than it was 15 years ago, and Al Ulbrickson, coach of the University of Washington's national champions, was asked why.

His answer:

"Condition, equipment and more scientific application of power."

His explanations:

"Kids are in much better condition these days, probably because they don't get worked so hard When I was rowing (1924-25-26) they used to send us all around the darned lake on long rows Now we don't row quite so much, and when we have a time trial, the kids have more 'kick' left.

"Equipment is undoubtedly better. Oars, shells, oarlocks, rigging — all have been improved over what they were 15 years ago.

"I think our system now is more scientific. When I was rowing we took a much longer reach. Now we've shortened the reach and manage to get more power with less exertion and with smother execution."

FOUR HOME RUNS CLOUTED IN GAME

Reds Look Like Kings Again

Win Like Champions In Past Two Weeks.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THE Cincinnati Reds are beginning to win like champions, even if they don't always look like baseball's kingpins.

Taken game by game during the past couple weeks the Reds have been the beneficiaries of more lucky victories than you could shake a bat at. But they all add up to a sudden surge that has brought the world champions eight triumphs in their past 10 games, lifting them within a half game of third place in the National league.

That is fast traveling which can't be brushed aside simply by saying they have been getting the breaks.

The Reds have been in a batting slump all season. For the first five innings yesterday Hugh Casey of the Brooklyn Dodgers held them hitless. Their first single in the sixth was wasted. Then in the last three innings they made nine blows, including a home run, four doubles and a triple, coming off with a 9-7 victory and making the Dodgers yield the circuit lead to the St. Louis Cardinals who trounced the New York Giants, 5-2.

Lonnie Frey, a one-time Dodger, was the big gun in the Reds' victory, driving in four tallies with a homer in the eighth and a double in the ninth, but a two-base error by Shortstop Peewee Reese in the latter inning made Cincinnati's winning runs unearned. Credit for the victory went to Joe Beggs, although it was the pitching of young Elmer Riddle that captured everybody's fancy. He went on duty in the ninth, and, with the tying run on base, struck out two men in succession to end the game, after he had given a double and an intentional walk.

The Reds roar into Boston today to meet the Braves. Johnny Vander Meer, who may be the wonder boy of the baseball world all over again, is down to continue the successful if not good work started on the Brooklyn Dodgers and Mannie Salvo is the Boston pitcher.

* * *

One of the fine pitching performances of the day yesterday was a six-hitter by Rookie Aldon Wilkie of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who shut out the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-0. The Chicago Cubs set off a 21-hit fireworks display at Boston to beat the Braves, 13-6, and present 42-year-old Charley Root the 197th victory of his career.

Yesterday was an open date for all American league clubs.

Sluggers Have Large Evening

Church league batsmen hauled out their heavy artillery and proceeded to annihilate the onion in three games yesterday as the First Lutherans sank St. Matthew's softballers 25-6; St. John's squelched the Baptist batters, 15-5 and the First Congregationals outblasted St. Luke's 19-14.

* * *

First Lutheran's Garrison snatched two homers in the melee while Sandel and Stone both touched Flockencier for three hits out of five chances. Bradford and Schacher, of St. Matthews, led their club with two out of three.

Floro got four out of five and Gross clicked on three out of four to lead St. John's asault. Miller, of the Baptist crew, had a perfect evening and took three out of three chances for bingles.

Brandt and Bush flogged the apple for a homer apiece in the First Cong slugfest Swank and E. Garnes, of St. Lukes, added one each for St. Lukes. Brown led St. Luke's hitters with three hits out of four chances.

CRUCIAL TILTS DRAW

NEW YORK —(AP)— There has never been a sell-out crowd at Yankee stadium for a world series game, although the big park has had the S. R. O. sign out for several regular season "crucial" contests.

COLORED SPRINTER HEADS BUCK SQUAD

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Coach Larry Snyder announced today that Ralph Hammond, colored, sprinter from New York City, has been elected captain of the 1942 Ohio State University track team.

The selection of Hammond marked the second time in the school's track history that a negro was chosen to captain the Buckeye cinder squad. The immortal Jesse Owens became the first colored captain in 1936.

Feller Goes After No. 13

Weather Man and Peck Help Victory March.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Bob Feller goes to the hill today after the jinx victory, No. 13, thereby bringing to a head much pent-up speculation over how many games Cleveland's young fireballer will win this season.

All the calculations show he should take 30 or more.

Before consulting the stars and the record books the guessers rule out the possibility of Bob being inducted into the army, the date of call being too indefinite to figure in the figures.

Mathematically speaking, here's some arguments:

31 victories—On June 10, 1940, Feller had won eight games. He ended with 27, meaning he added 19 in a period corresponding with the rest of this year. That would make the 1941 total 31.

32 victories—Last year the Iowa farm boy took his 13th decision on July 3 Thus a victory over Washington today would put him three weeks ahead of schedule, which would mean five extra triumphs. Adding five to his best year of 27 would bring 32.

36 victories—Bob has won 12 games in approximately one-third of the season.

Feller has been helped by the weather man and Manager Roger Peckinpaugh so far.

Good weather to date has piled up only four double-headers for the Indians, enhancing Bob's chances of pitching more often.

* * *

Seeking to get the most out of his ace, Peckinpaugh has pitched the young right-hander every fourth day. Contiuation of such a program means Bob will start probably 25 more times.

32 Women Golfers Seek Tourney Cup

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Thirty-two gorgeous golfers, ranging in scoring ability from sub-par 71 to exasperating 95, and in age from 15 up to where they don't count birthdays, launched match play competition today over the the Cincinnati country club's tightly-trapped course in quest of the 12th annual western women's open championship.

Pacing the parade were two professionals and the national amateur queen, the only three in the starting field of 82 able to crack 80 in yesterday's qualifying round.

Patty Berg, the mighty miss from Minneapolis, snared birdies on four holes, and an eagle on another, to romp around in 71 strokes, two under par, to set a course record and to tie the tourney mark set in 1936 by Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City.

Five strokes back was another professional, Helen Dettweiler of Washington with 76, while Betty Jameson, the national amateur ruler from San Antonio, had 79 for third place.

Ohio players make up just half the championship bracket with 16 entrants, 11 of them from Cincinnati. The big Buckeye threats include Dorothy Gardner of Steubenville, runner-up for the state crown a year ago.

Pass-Rule Aids Warner Style

ATLANTA—(AP)—W. A. (Bill) Alexander, head coach at Georgia Tech and a member of the Football Rules committee, feels that the recent alteration which allows the ball to be handed forward to any player behind the line of scrimmage will be a definite aid to exponents of the Warner system of play.

"The play may be handed first from one backfield man to another back of the line of scrimmage, or may be handed forward to a lineman who has come out of the line of scrimmage and who is at least one yard back of the line of scrimmage when he receives the ball," Alexander explains.

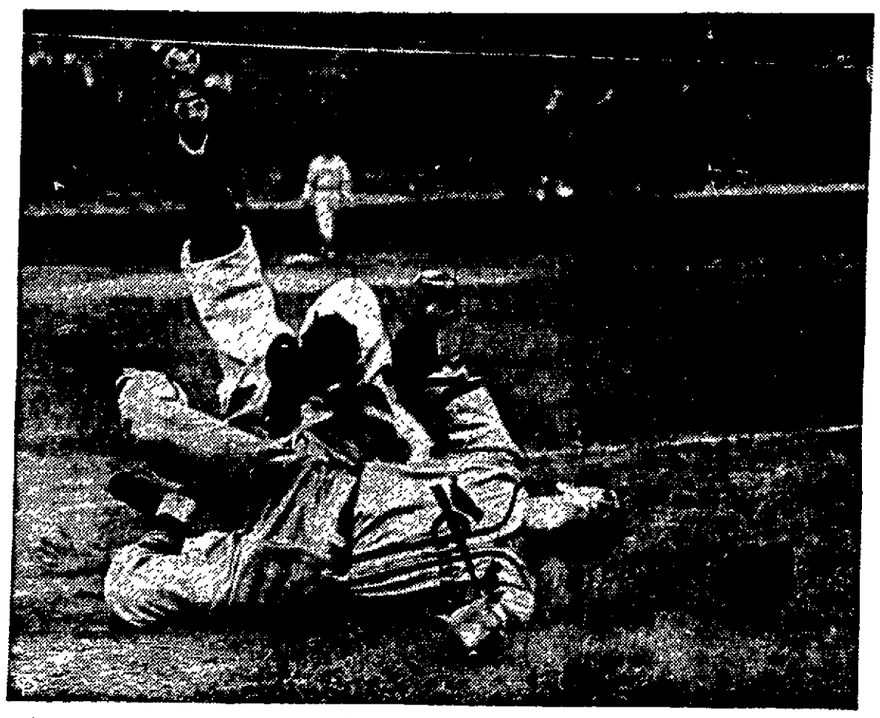
"I believe the exponents of the Warner system will benefit from this rule because it will help them on their double reverses. They can fake a man coming behind and then hand the ball off in front after a complete spin. It will not be greatly different from the present double reverse, however."

VANDY RECEIVES SERVICE PAPERS

MIDLAND PARK, N. J.—(AP) —Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati Reds' pitcher of no-hit, no-run fame, received his selective service questionnaire last night, immediately filled it in and returned it to his draft board.

Vander Meer, visiting his parents while the Reds are in the New York district, is 27 and married.

Here's a Collision That Is a Collision



When Creepy Crespi, Cardinal infielder, tried to get by Sibi Sisti, the third baseman of the Boston Braves, this collision resulted. Crespi seems to be hurt. The action picture was caught by an enterprising photographer in Boston.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—If you've been wondering why Bill Jurges has been missing from the Giants' lineup for the past few days, it's just for some rest. But just to make sure that old feeling won't return, Bill expects to get some of the same injections that put him back in the game last spring . . . Dark days are ahead for minor league ball clubs, one way or another . . The Atlanta Crackers tried playing daylight ball just to see how things would turn out in case they have to give up the floodlights—and the crowds fell off so badly that President Earl Mann is wondering what ever became of the fans who used to watch afternoon games.

OUT OF SEASON

Frank Leahy already has Notre Dame fans frightened by being unduly optimistic about his team's chances next fall Frank says he isn't worried about the opposition until the Indiana game, which is second on the schedule, and if the Irish get by that one they may go undefeated until the Navy game in November . . . But some of the other reports lead Reader John Burgoyne of Cincinnati (and a red-hot Notre Dame fan) to ask whether the sports writers will predict a good season and then hope they're wrong or predict a bad season and hope they're right . . . Camp Haan at Riverside, Calif., boasts it has three gridiron sharpshooters with the anti-aircraft forces—Norm Duncan of U. C. L. A., Hal Van Every of Minnesota and Tony Mazziota of Notre Dame.

Fighters Win At Marysville

Al Sauer Cops Nod In Five-Round Main Bout.

Mansfield amateur battlers went to the wars in Marysville last night and returned with a winning record of three to two as Al Sauer, James Alexander and Dick Swartzel brought home the bacon.

Al Sauer won a decision over Ted Woodard, State Legion middleweight champion, of Cincinnati, in a special five round feature of the show. Sauer took the nod in a close bout, getting the best of some furious infighting.

James Alexander put away Dan Pinto, of Columbus, in one minute of the first. Alexander had Pinto on the floor twice before the referee stopped the battle for a T. K. O.

Dick Swartzel kayoed Bob Graves in the third of a three round bout. It was Swartzel all the way as Graves was saved from the finisher by the bell at the end of the second.

Leonard Waddell lost a close decision to Tony Caminiti, of Columbus.

Frankie Lee lost a decision to Dave Messmer of Columbus in a three rounder for the other Mansfield loss. Lee ran into a left hook that slowed him down early in the fight but managed to weather the storm.

Autocall Club Beats Plymouth

SHELBY—Autocall Co. defeated the Plymouth Merchants, 10 to 9, last night in the second game of the Shelby Softball league.

The Merchants held the lead up to the last half of the ninth inning when Sharrock hit a triple, Claybaugh a double and Leemaster brought the winning run home on a single.

The Salesbook Co. team will play the Provident Co. at 6:15 tonight at the diamond on North Gamble street.

Hurler Shows He's Got Stuff

Grodzicki Scores Five Straight For Birds.

(By Associated Press)

Johnny Grodzicki, big 24-year-old right-hander, is determined to show the St. Louis Cardinals what a boner they pulled in farming him out to heir Columbus ranch.

Hefty Johnny barely missed sticking with the Cards, who apparently had more pitchers than they could use. So they shipped him to Columbus, where he has ripped off five straight victories and played a major part in boosting the Redbirds into first place in the American association.

His finest mound job to date came last night when Columbus knocked off Minneapolis and supplanted the slugging Millers at the head of the parade. Grodzicki set the visitors down with three hits, struck out 10, walked only two and took a shutout decision, 10 to 0.

Thus Columbus now is pacing the league by five points although still tied with Minneapolis on won-lost calculations. A half game back is Kansas City in third place and another half game behind is Louisville. Toledo in fifth place is only three games behind the front runners.

Louisville moved up with an uphill victory over lowly Milwaukee, 6 to 5, in 11 innings. Toledo defeated St. Paul, 3 to 2, on Herb Nordquists's four-hit pitching.

The Boston Red Sox staged a merry-go-round at the expense of the Indianapolis Indians in an exhibition game, winning by 23 to 14 on 23 hits.

Wild Pitch Decides Victory for Braves

Eleven Inning Pitchers' Battle Tossed Away By Jack Griffore

Burly Jack Griffore of the Findlay Oilers had the Mansfield Braves in the palm of his hand for nine long innings last night at the Fairground, but with a twist of the wrist he let them escape.

A wild pitch with Graf Moore on third, Tim Mangan on second and two out in the 11th, and with Pitcher Tony Drewek at bat and giving promise of an early third out, sent Moore racing home with the winning run in a 5 to 4 pitching battle.

The painfully slow-working Griffore got away to a bad start when he was touched for three hits and four runs in the first inning, but from then until the 10th he allowed only one hit, a double by Eddie Mutryn in the third.

Meanwhile he was fanning 13 batters, getting five straight in the third, fourth and fifth frames, and the Oilers, plugging away at the offerings of Chuck Byers, tied the score at 4-4 by scoring runs in singletons.

Byers was pitching a good ball game himself, allowing only six hits and four runs and fanning eight in the nine frames he toiled, but when Manager Alex Clowson, limping on a sore toe that had been smacked by a foul tip, batted for Byers in the ninth with Siegbert on first and two out, and popped up, the fans were just about ready to concede the decision to Griffore.

Tony Drewek, making his first appearance of the season before the home fans, did some neat hurling through the 10th and 11th stanzas, but the fan-flock just couldn't see how the Braves were ever going to get to Griffore for another run.

So when Graf Moore led off with a ringing double in the 11th there was excitement a-plenty in the old ball yard. And when Tim Mangan slapped one down toward second and was safe on a fielder's choice as Stephenson threw too late to third to get Moore, the wolves were out and howling for victory.

But like mighty Casey's followers of old, a deadly silence fell upon the patrons of the game as Fred Wolpert flied short to center and Harry Siegbert tapped weakly back to the box for two outs, and tall Tony Drewek stepped into the batter's box and waved at a first strike.

But the strain had been too much for Griffore. He tried too hard for a strike out on Drewek. He reared back with all he had and wheeled that next one down through there, but the heave got out of control, skimmed the dirt just back of the plate and bounded off Catcher Ruley's glove back to the stands.

And Graf came galloping home.

It was the fifth victory in the last six games for the Braves, and cemented their hold on fourth place in the Ohio State league standings as they drive toward a first division berth.

President Joe Donnelly of the Ohio State league was on hand last night to watch the work of Umpires Ward and Rohl whose decisions brought down the ire of the crowd in the Fremont doubleheader of last week.

Donnelly saw the umpires embroiled in more than one argument last night, but they handled every situation in acceptable fashion, and kept the game going without resorting to wrist watches and dugout parades.

Mansfield scored its four runs in the first when Ankrum led off with a walk and Moore singled. Salem was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases, and Mutryn singled, driving in two markers. Salem and Mutryn tallied on Moore's single and it looked like a slaughter was in order. But Griffore put on the brakes and the Braves never threatened seriously again until the 11th.

Findlay got a run in the second on Bill McGrath's double and Antel's single. Mazgay clouted a home run over the right-center field wall in the sixth. A walk to Ruley and a double by Griffore plated the third run in the seventh, and the Oilers tied the score in the eighth on a squeeze play.

Cannon walked and after Mazgay flied to center, McGrath smacked a single, sending Cannon to third. McGrath stole second. Ruley walked, filling the bases, and Cannon scored when Antel laid a bunt down the third base line.

Brenner also attempted the squeeze to bring McGrath home, but missed the bunt and Bill was out sliding into home.

Women Kegling Champs Decided

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Surprising young opportunists from Los Angeles, where kegling is just becoming a major sport, and veterans from Chicago, long a stronghold of the same, shared all the laurels of the 24th annual Women's International Bowling Congress.

Los Angeles claimed three of the major titles—singles, doubles and booster team champions. Chicago, which dominated the 1940 tourney by sweeping every crown, won the coveted team and all-events honors.

A packed gallery of more than 3,000 saw the curtain fall early this morning on the tournament, first ever held in the Far West. Belated efforts to crack the top five failed.

Nearly 6,000 keglerettes from 32 states, Honolulu, Panama and Canada bowled in the 26-day tourney. Cash prizes approximating $32,000 will be mailed to the leaders.

One lone 1940 champion came through here. Mrs. Sally Twyford of Chicago, 41, a grandmother, who won the singles last year, rang up a grand total of 1799 to capture the all-events medal.

The new singles champion is Mrs. Nancy Huff, 27-year-old Los Angeles housewife, who rolled 662.

A Los Angeles pair, Mary Jane Hogan and Jo Pittenger, carried off the doubles tropiy.

Team honors went to the Rovicks of Chicago with 2661.

DADS HONORED

The next two home appearances of the Mansfield Braves will be double headers with Tiffin Wednesday night and Lima Saturday night. With Dad's Day falling on Sunday the Braves management announced today that the Saturday night twin-bill will be designated as Father and Son night. Boys under 16, going to the game with their fathers, will be admitted free.

Kid Grows Up, Clouts Apple

Williams Decides to Be Good, Finds He Is.

CHICAGO —(AP)— The kid has grown up.

Authority for that statement is the "kid" himself — 22-year-old Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox. Currently the mightiest hitter in baseball, Ted says he is through feuding with writers and fans. He's out to be known as just "a nice guy" and intends to live down that "partly deserved" reputation for unsociability.

"They said I was a heel and I'll admit I had a lousy attitude," said the lanky youngster who through Friday was hitting an amazing .436. "But I don't think I deserved all they wrote about me."

When Williams came to the Red Sox in 1939 his cocksure attitude made him a big "target" and his remark that he'd "rather be a fireman than a ball player" furnished another opening for the boys who didn't like him.

"But when they moved right field 20 feet closer to the plate at Fenway park I really got in bad in Boston," Williams said. "Everyone thought I'd hit 80 homers and I guess I thought I would too. When I only hit 23 last season—as against 31 in 1939—I got mad about it myself. And a few of the boys got sore at me.

"Boy, it got so I hated to go out and meet people. That's all over now. I'm just trying to get along. It's a dream I've always had—the way I'm hitting now. Boy, I'm just busting the cover off that ball. I'm lucky because a lot of my drives are going where "they ain't'. And hell, it's only June. I may be down to .360 in another month."

TOM HUGHES

When Tom Hughes, Philadelphia Phillies' rookie pitcher, hurled a one-hitter against the Chicago Cubs the other day, baseball observers predicted he may become another Kirby Higbe, the Phil star sold for a reported $100,000 to the Dodgers last winter. Hughes, who won 14 games for Baltimore last year, has been in baseball only two years. Twice last year Hughes hurled two-hit victories.

DOCTORS WARN FOLKS WHO ARE CONSTIPATED—

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO assist liver bile flow to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

TOURNEY PAIRINGS DELAYED FOR WOOD

GIRARD—(AP)—Pairings in the $5,000 Mahoning Valley open golf tournament were held up today pending word from Craig Wood, U. S. open champion, who has indicated he probably will enter the June 13-15 classic.

Tournament Manager Peter M. Wellman said he expected a definite decision today following a conference between Wood and members of his home club in Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Eighteen holes are scheduled Friday and Saturday with the field cut to 60 professionals and 15 amateurs for Sunday's final 36 holes.

OVERLIN BOOSTS CINCY SCRAPPER

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Ken Overlin, the Washington sailor who would very much like to be the world's middleweight champion again, says that a few more fights and young Ezzard Charles will be something of a fighter.

* * *

Ken ought to know. He took a ten-round decision from the Cincinnati high school student last night by easing along for six rounds to see what Ezzard had and then sending him staggering for the last four.

THEATERS

Historical Romance.

Lady Hamilton, whose influence over Admiral Nelson's career rocked a continent, is portrayed by Vivien Leigh in Alexander Korda's brilliant production, "That Hamilton Woman," currently showing at the Ohio. Costumes and hats for the role were adapted from Romney paintings of the Neopolitan court beauty, while settings for Lady Hamilton's room were obtained from leading art collections throughout the country. Laurence Olivier plays the role of Lord Nelson, hero of Trafalgar, and the cast includes Sara Allgood, Alan Mowbray, and Henry Wilcoxon.

Comedy Drama.

"Thieves Fall Out," a gay comedy revolving around a young man who sells a valuable legacy in order to set himself up in business opens Wednesday at the Madison. When gangsters step in and demand part payment he must make some quick decisions. Eddie Albert has the leading role and June Darwell and Joan Leslie are in the supporting cast. James Stewart and Paulette Goddard continue tonight in "Pot O' Gold" with Horace Heidt's band. "Singapore Woman" is on the same bill.

Detective Drama.

Taking place in the London of today, amidst difficulties brought on by blackouts and bursting bombs, "Scotland Yard," opening Wednesday at the Ritz, concerns a chase for a gentleman crook who has stolen the face of a banker. Thrills are heaped upon thrills when the Gestapo stretches across the Channel and England's famous detective agency intensifies its action. Henry Wilcoxon plays the crook and John Loder the banker whom Wilcoxon attempts to impersonate. Edmund Gwenn and Nancy Kelly are in the cast. "Victory," is the second film.

Newsroom Yarn.

Idealism triumphs over indifference when a cub reporter "takes over" in "Behind the News," fast-moving drama of the Fourth Estate showing at the Park. Frank Albertson as a journalism student, dumped on a city sheet right from college, shows seasoned newsmen how to expose graft and corrupt politics. Lloyd Nolan, Robert Armstrong and Charles Halton, play the ace reporter, managing editor and make-up man. Doris Davenport provides romantic interest as Nolan's girl friend. Gene Autry in "Back In the Saddle," with Smiley Burnette and Jacqueline Wells is the second feature.

The New York Yankees and Cincinnato Reds permit negro baseball teams to use their parks when they are on the road.

Pictures

The clamor for news pictures has long existed. But the statement that "one picture is worth ten thousand words" is more true today than ever before. People like pictures —they are so easy to understand.

The Mansfield News-Journal recognizes this need for accurate, timely camera reporting and endeavors to bring its readers the latest and finest pictures available. This modern daily spends thousands of dollars annually to secure the most significant pictures and to get them while they are still news. The News-Journal subscribes to many of the most important picture services. It has a local photography staff, outfitted with finest photo-taking and developing equipment available.

Outstanding pictorial journalism is only one of the many reasons why the News-Journal is so popular in Mansfield and north central Ohio. Top-notch news reporting, a galaxy of world-famous writers and contributors and a generous selection of mirth-provoking comics also are important factors in keeping reader-interest high.

STOCK LEADERS SHOW FURTHER ADVANCE TREND

Wall Street Cheered By FDR Action To Curb Strikes In Defense Industry.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks exhibited further advancing tendencies in today's market. Dealings, fairly fast at the start, soon slackened. Gains of fractions to a point for favored steels, motors and others were in the majority near the second hour.

While Wall Street was cheered to some extent by the apparently stiffer attitude of Washington toward defense strikes, brokers said, stock buyers inclined to proceed carefully pending clarification of other labor disputes.

Financial observers saw confirmation of sustained industrial activity throughout the nation in the combined statement of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities for the week ended June 4 disclosing an upturn of $33,000,000 in loans to commerce, industry and agriculture. It was the sixth consecutive weekly increase in this item.

Holders of automotive shares noted reports from this field that steel shortages, particularly in sheets necessary for bodies and fenders, might seriously handicap near-future output of new cars.

AN ECONOMICAL WANT AD CALLS ON MORE PROSPECTS THAN 1,000 SALESMEN!

Figure it out for yourself: The News-Journal goes to over 20,000 families every day, and there are two or more adults to each family. That makes 40,000 adult readers every day. 1,000 salesmen would have to call on 40 prospects a day to give you the same results that a little Want Ad will give you.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that bids will be received at the office of the Madison Township Trustees, Richland County, Ohio, until the 24th day of June, 1941, at 8 o'clock P. M. Eastern Standard Time, for the furnishing of labor and material for the road improvement of North Smith Avenue in East Mansfield, Madison Township. Materials shall be furnished, hauled and applied as per plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Engineer.

Right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Contract will be awarded to lowest and best bidder. Bids are to be submitted upon a lump sum basis.

Attention is directed to the special statutory provisions. General Code AAL 1-7-3 et seq. governing the prevailing rate of wages to be paid to laborers and mechanics employed on public improvements.

No bid will be considered which is for a greater sum than the estimated cost, nor unless it be accompanied by a bond or certified check in the sum of $25.00 to guarantee that if said bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into the performance of it properly secured.

By order of the Madison Township Trustees.

FRED J. STAHLHEBER,
Township Clerk.

JUST KIDS By Ad Carter

LAWSEY ME!—SOMETIMES I THINK MEN HAVE MORE CURIOSITY THAN WOMEN—IF YOU MUST KNOW, THE GREEN BOY SAID SOMETHING UNPLEASANT ABOUT POLICEMEN AND STEVE WOULDN'T STAND FOR IT—NOW, DO YOU BLAME HIM?
SO THAT'S IT—I GUESS I'D BETTER TALK TO STEVE AND THE GREEN BOY FINE!
HEY-STEVE-SERGEANT BRANNER WANTS YOU!
YOU SEE, STEVE—WHEN YOU ARE WRONG I TELL YOU, AND WHEN I'M WRONG I TELL YOU, TOO—NOW, I OWE YOU AN APOLOGY FOR SAYING I WAS ASHAMED OF YOU FOR FIGHTING—I FOUND OUT ALL ABOUT IT AND I'M NOT ASHAMED OF YOU
THANK YOU, SIR
NOW UNDERSTAND—I DON'T ENCOURAGE FIGHTING—BUT I DO THINK YOU ARE A PRETTY NICE BOY, STEVE AND I THINK YOU'RE BETTER THAN THAT, SIR

CAPTAIN SAYS TORPEDO SANK AMERICAN SHIP

Tells of Rescue of 11 of 46 Aboard Robin Moor, Lost In South Atlantic.

(P. C. Eccles, British-born banker, a passenger)

(John J. Benigan, New York City, third officer; William Cary, Delmar, N. Y., boatswain; Holie O. Rice, Bowie, Tex., able seaman; Donald Schablein, Yonkers, able seaman; Peter A. Buss, Bethlehem, Pa., able seaman; Karl Nilson, Baltimore, 1st assistant engineer; Virgil C. Sandelin, New York, third assistant engineer; Richard Carlisle, Maywood, Calif., fireman; Antonio Santos, Newark, N. J., chief cook, and Hugh T. Murphy, East Boston, Mass., messman.)

The saved members of the crew declared there were three more lifeboats with 28 members of the crew and seven passengers, including three women and one child.

The commander of the Brazilian ship, Tmanadare, which I also requested to investigate, said tbout 1 p. m. yesterday he found pieces of baggage consisting of one suitcase and children's toys.

Unfortunately nothing more has been found up to now. (This radiogram was sent at midnight, Eastern Standard Time).

Among the eleven rescued are three officers.

We are continuing to Recife (Pernambuco), Brazil, where he expect to arrive tomorrow night.

Asks Americans to Withhold Judgment

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House disclosed today that information indicates definitely that the steamer Robin Moor went down in American waters on this side of the Atlantic, but asked that Americans suspend judgment on the matter until all the facts are ascertained.

Secretary Stephen T. Early said President Roosevelt is seeking information through every official channel on the cause of the sinking of the American freight and passenger steamer.

As yet, however, Early said official reports do not disclose the exact cause of the sinking. Some reports had said that the ship was torpedoed. It sank in the South Atlantic.

"I think the president would appreciate it if you suspend judgment until the facts are ascertained," Early said.

"We don't know yet the cause of the sinking. We are trying to determine that.

"The position of the ship (when it went down) seems to be fairly well determined, and that would put it in American waters on this side of the Atlantic."

Early said he knew nothing of a report that the captain of the Brazilian vessel which picked up some survivors had asserted that the Robin Moor was torpedoed. But he said that if this report was true, the report undoubtedly will be transmitted quickly to the state department by Jefferson Caffery, United States ambassador to Brazil.

But up to this point, said Early, the president and state department officials have no information on the sinking in addition to what already has been published.

GUARD UNIT IN CITY MAPPED

Bierly Appointed Captain, Moorhead Lieutenant of Mansfield Group.

start recruiting have been received and three officers and about sixty men will be needed for the local unit.

Bierly said that this group would not be just a home guard unit but an Ohio State guard under state control.

Applicants for the guard will be asked to undergo a physical examination and will not be exempt from selective service.

Bierly said that training would probably be given at the Ohio State Armory on Ashland road. The new captain served overseas with the American Expeditionary forces. He enlisted in old Company M at the age of 19 years and was later admitted to Ohio's 37th division.

Bierly was decorated by the Belgian government for distinguished service in the field of battle, and was honorably discharged as a second lieutenant in the Reserve corps. He also served as post commander of McVey Post, American Legion.

His first lieutenant, Hollis D. Moorhead, is also a World War veteran. He served with the 82nd company, Sixth marines, Second division, and received a decoration from the French government. He was later transferred to Second division headquarters as a dispatch writer.

Adjutant Genera' Whittier S. Bird disclosed at Columbus today that light blue uniforms have been chosen as equipment for the new guard. He estimated that it would cost $11.45 to outfit one guardsman with two shirts, two pair of trousers, a tie, belt, a pair of shoes and a hat.

The adjutant general also said that he expected that 1903-model Enfield rifles will be released to the state guard next week.

At Red Cross Home Nursing Dinner Party

Closing the season for the classes of the Red Cross Home Nursing was the dinner party held Monday evening at the Susie Janis home with 26 in attendance. Appointments were in the patriotic color scheme and the group heard a talk by Mrs. Ray Scott following the dinner. The above pictures were taken following the meeting. Top photo shows the officers of the class, left to right, Mrs. Nelson Rath, treasurer; Miss Jane Stough, president; Mrs. R. C. Fetterman, secretary, and Mrs. W. B. Wild, instructor. Lower photo, left to right, were the honored guests, Mrs. George Ingram, member of the Red Cross Home Nursing committee, Mrs. Ray Scott, Red Cross Nursing chairman, and Miss Lucile Lindsey, city nurse and member of the Red Cross Home Nursing committee. Similar classes will be resumed in the fall.

Bandit Menaces Four, Gets $979 In Dayton Holdup

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — A lone bandit escaped on foot today after robbing the Springfield Securities System, incorporated, office of $979 as four employes of the loan office lay face down on the floor.

Threatening to "shoot down" anyone who didn't "shut up," the bandit scooped up loose cash from the teller windows, then rifled an open safe before vaulting a counter and racing to the street.

According to Brown Burleigh, manager of the loan company, the bandit entered the office shortly after he and three other employes had opened the establishment for the day.

Walking quietly into the office, the desperado flourished a gun and said, "shut up and lie down or get shot." Miss Mary Pearson, an employe, screamed and the bandit menaced her with the gun and ordered her to keep quiet.

NAVY SPEEDS CONSTRUCTION OF WARSHIPS

New $90,000,000 Battlecraft To Be Launched Months Ahead of Schedule.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The navy, setting the pace for private shipbuilders in the race for construction of a two-ocean fleet, expects to launch at least one of its first 45,000 ton battleships, the New Jersey, next year, about nine months ahead of schedule.

The dreadnaught, for which expanded ways had to be built and which will cost in excess of $90,000,000, is rapidly taking shape in the Philadelphia navy yard. A sister ship, the Wisconsin, is well along in an adjoining building way.

Some Washington navy officials were surprised to learn of the progress already made on the New Jersey, because her keel was laid on Sept. 16, 1940—less than eight months ago—and the construction of two smaller ships, the 35,000-ton North Carolina and Washington, required 30 months and 24 months, respectively, from keel-laying to launching.

Much of the acceleration in the New Jersey's construction was due to the so-called "speed-up" program adopted by the navy last year and for which congress appropriated millions to pay for overtime work and similar expedients. But officials emphasized that a great part of the acceleration resulted from the growing efficiency of the shipbuilding organization, which had been seriously disorganized by the inactivity of the preceding 20 years during which the United States did not build a single battleship.

The New Jersey class of capital ships will give the United States the largest and most powerful warship in the world for, while the British naval officers who sank the German battleship Bismarck expressed belief she was a 50,000 ton ship, she was officially designated as of only 35,000 tons. Fully loaded and armed, the New Jersey and her sister ships will displace considerably more than 50,000 tons, informed sources said.
